JAPAN SCRAPS LIMITATION TREATY

Hold Man In Hastings Bank Robbery

New Naval Pact Giving Equality Is Asked By Tokyo

Formal Notice of Abrogation of 5-5-3 Agreement, Effective December 31, 1936, Handed Secretary Hull—Elimination of All "Offensive War Weapons" Suggested.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP) — Japan scrapped the Washington naval treaty today, calling once more for a new pact which would give her equality and wipe out all "offensive weapons of war."

The historic moment the world has been awaiting came when Ambassador Hirosi Saito stepped into the state department and handed Secretary Hull the formal notice that after December 31, 1936, Japan will not be bound by the treaty which gives her the "3" in the famous 5-5-3 ratio.

The Oriental diplomat, who was present 12 years ago when the treaty limiting fighting navies was born, thus sounded its death knell. In a statement, he expressed hope a new treaty could be agreed upon within the next two years. Japan, he said, is willing to discard half her navy if "a common maximum limit" for the United States, Great Britain and the Far Eastern empire is established.

He said he was "not at all anxious" about the possibility of a naval race.

"No One Wishes" Building Race.

"The peoples concerned are all intelligent," he said, "and their governments are rational. No one wishes to engage in damaging naval building competition."

A statement by the Japanese foreign office spokesman explaining Japan's action was made public by the embassy here.

"In view," it said, "of the present state of extraordinary development in warship, aircraft, and other weapons of war, the existing naval treaties which recognize inequality of armaments among the powers can no longer afford security of national defense to Japan.

"For this reason, the new treaty should rest not upon a ratio principle, but on the formula of an agreed common upper limit for the armaments to be retained by each power."

"In order," it said, "to render it difficult for any power to attack another, but easy to defend itself, the offensive arms should be totally abolished or drastically reduced, and the defensive arms adequately provided."

"Offensive Weapons" Defined.

The giant battleships and airplanes are included in "offensive weapons," according to Japanese definitions in the past.

LONDON, Dec. 29—(AP) —The clock has been turned back a dozen years by Japan's denunciation of the Washington treaty of 1922, it was asserted today by both American and British spokesmen here.

The deepest regret was expressed that the only successful disarmament pact should be thrown upon the junk heap, and British and Americans were convinced that only a change of attitude in Japan upon the question of equality would make possible a new treaty.

An American spokesman declared that political stability in the Pacific was threatened and that a naval building race was a possibility after 1936.

A British spokesman pointed out that in addition to the system of security established, the Washington treaty saved each country millions of dollars in expenditures.

It was stated the British intended to make new efforts at the earliest opportunity to bring about further conversations or a conference of the three powers, Britain, Japan and the United States.

The Americans expressed the belief that the entire collateral peace system of the Pacific has been endangered by the denunciation, feeling that Japan may later put aside the nine-power and four-power pacts signed at the same time as the Washington naval treaty.

Bail Furnished For Catherine Limerick And Alice Denning

Omaha bondsmen Saturday afternoon furnished bail in the sum of $10,000 for Mrs. Catherine Limerick and Mrs. Alice Denning, wives of Maurice Denning and Tom Limerick, alleged robbers of the Security National bank at Superior, Neb.

The two women are under indictment with four others—Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Berry, Theola Giermann and Nellie Rhoden Likens—for alleged harboring of the men in a hideout at Kinney, Neb. They were released from the city jail, where they have been held for more than a month, at about 2:30 o'clock.

The other four remain in jail in default of $5,000 bond. Arraignments are scheduled for January 5.

SOLONS GIVING ATTENTION TO MONDAY CAUCUS

Circulation of Official Senate Call Started By Sen. Stewart.

HOUSE PREPARING SIMILAR ACTION

Answers to Questionnaire On Liquor Show Wide Opinion Variance.

CAUCUS IN AFTERNOON.

Time of the democratic house caucus will be 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, it appeared definitely certain Saturday afternoon on a poll of members now in the city. William Haycock of Callaway and W. H. Diers of Gresham developed strength as "dark horse" candidates for the speakership when it was reported that Cone was withdrawing from the race in favor of Havekost. Cone was reported concentrating on chairmanship of the committee on committees. Haycock is said to have fifteen members pledged to his support, with the possibility that the Douglas county delegation will swing over to him after voting for Edward J. Dugan on the first ballot.

Circulation of an official call for the party caucus of democratic state senators to be held at 8:30 Monday evening at the Lindell hotel, for the purpose of selecting officers of that chamber, was started Saturday forenoon. The typewritten paper in the possession of Senator Cloyd Stewart of Clay Center, was signed before noon by himself and by Senators A. L. Neumann of Tekamah, J. S. Callan of Odell, W. C. Bullard of McCook, and Henry Pedersen of Guide Rock.

Senator Charles D. Green of Sidney, just arrived in Lincoln, indicated that he was a candidate for floor leader and chairman of the committee on committees.

Half Dozen On Hand.

Only half a dozen senators had reached Lincoln on Saturday for the opening of the legislative session Tuesday noon. Until more of them show up not much mixing of organization medicine can be done.

O. Edwin Schultz, newly elected republican senator from Elgin, joined the advance guard in Lincoln and is getting acquainted with his colleagues of both parties as they come in.

Srb Has Advantage.

So far as advance indications go, Hugo F. Srb of Dodge appears to have the inside track for secretary of the senate. His rivals are Andy J. Welch of Milford, J. P. O'Furey of Hartington, H. B. Shellenbarger of Stamford, and Jack Kelso of Lincoln. The last three are under the handicap of having no democratic senators in their home districts to front for them.

There is a large question mark which may have a good deal to do with the selection of the senate

TRY TO CLOSE MENTAL HOMES

Housing Patients In Residence District Hit By Council.

City and federal authorities are co-operating in an effort to close in the residential districts of the city homes that are being used for care of the county's mentally incompetent, Dr. M. F. Arnholt, superintendent of health, declared Saturday. If the places are not closed voluntarily, City Attorney Max Kier said, "we can close them on the ground of their being a nuisance."

According to Dr. Arnholt there are upwards of eight places where incompetents are being housed. Those about which the most serious complaints are being received are at Thirty-fifth and W streets, and Thirty-third and O streets. About sixteen persons are kept in the two places, he estimated.

Most of the patients are persons who were removed from Eighteenth and R streets to a hospital about a year ago, Dr. Arnholt said. Ia was only recently that it was learned they had been taken from the hospitals.

The problem of forcing abandonment of the places was discussed at an informal session of the city council, and Mayor Fleming was authorized to take the necessary action, in the event the city attorney should rule that legal relief is possible.

Plot For U. S. Dictatorship Is Charged

Martindell Said to Have Told Plans to Take Over Government.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—An army captain's testimony that Jackson Martindell, New York counsel, had described plans to enlist 500,000 young men in an organization designed to take over the United States government and set up a dictatorship, was made public today by the house committee investigating un-American activities.

The officer, Capt. Samuel Glazier of Baltimore, said Martindell told him he controlled $700,000,000 in funds that would back the move. The testimony was given at a closed meeting of the committee in New York last month.

Glazier said he had met Martindell when the latter visited a CCC camp at Elkridge, Md., which the captain commanded, and that they talked about the possibility of establishing an organization similar to the CCC in industry.

Later, Glazier testified, he visited Martindell's estate in New Jersey and learned there of the proposal to set up an organization of 500,000 persons as "American vigilantes."

Martindell, he said, displayed a band that was to be used and also a flag. Glazier testified:

"He said this: That he knew with the present policies of the president, eventually the country was coming to a revolution and when that time came he wanted to be ready with his organization to take over the reins of the government."

FOUR ARE LOST IN ADIRONDACKS AS PLANE FALLS

Searchers Unable to Locate Men Snowbound On Mountain Top.

NONE IS INJURED; RADIO FOR HELP

Huge Air Liner Crashes In Trees During Storm; Build Bonfire.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 29—(AP)—Radio compass stations of two countries were unable today to locate four men who reported they were snowbound on an Adirondack mountain peak after the wreck last night of the Boston-Cleveland air liner.

One of the last messages that came from the party as their radio calls weakened said: "It is very cold up here and we would like to have help soon."

A short time later Pilot Ernest Dryer reported:

"Our battery is about dead now."

Department of commerce radio stations at Boston, Albany, Newark and Buffalo, and a station at Montreal, Canada, sought to converge radio beams on the plane. They were only able to fix its location as somewhere in the wild country between Gloversville and Speculator.

None Injured.

Pilot Dryer brought the huge 16-passenger ship down in a clump of trees about 8:30 o'clock last night, without injury to two copilots and the one passenger, a federal education expert.

Dryer reported a huge bonfire had been built and that he believed he was down near Gloversville.

Forest rangers said that a freezing fog in some parts of the lower Adirondacks and raging snowstorms in others hid all mountain peaks.

The men had guns, but no food.

"We will fly to find them as a last resort if it is humanly possible to get a plane off the ground," Manager William Garrett of the American Air lines at Albany announced. All planes remained grounded, warned that ice would form on their wings as it did on the wings of the Cleveland plane and forced them down.

Search Is Fruitless.

State troopers and forest rangers on snowshoes worked through miles of wilderness northwest of Gloversville without reporting any trace of the plane.

No word came from it between 8:19 o'clock last night, when it made its last flying report over Utica, and 9:15 a. m., when the voice of Co-Pilot Jack H. Brown sounded on the American Air lines radio station at Albany airport saying:

"Everybody's all right, please tell our folks.

"We crashed in a group of trees. x x x We are at 2,200 feet altitude."

Later the party reported the plane was being covered by snow already two and a half feet deep.

Another Kansas Slaying Mystery

PITTSBURG, Kas., Dec. 29—(AP) — The second Crawford county death mystery within a month was under investigation today by officers after the apparent slaying of P. Louis Zickgraf, 51, Pittsburg attorney and war veteran, whose body was found last night in the rural home where he lived alone. He had been shot to death, but no weapons were found.

Only a few miles away, at Chicopee, the body of Fedell Fontaine, 28 - year - old relief worker, was found three weeks ago under water in an abandoned surface coal mine. His death has not been solved.

Officers were informed Zickgraf married for a fourth time last September and that his wife left him after five days.

UNEMPLOYABLES WILL COST TWO MILLION YEARLY

Haynes Puts Estimate On Possible Added Burden To State.

National Relief Administrator Hopkins' reported decision to shunt all "Unemployables" on federal relief back onto the states and counties will cost Nebraska close to $2,000,000 a year, according to an estimate made Saturday by State Federal Relief Agent Haynes.

The state's load in January will be $157,000 if the Hopkins decision is carried through, Haynes stated, and the yearly estimate was arrived at by multiplying this sum by 12. "Of course, this is only an estimate, but it is probably a fairly accurate one," Haynes said.

30 Per Cent of Rolls.

According to J. E. Woods, assistant to Haynes, who compiled the estimate, Hopkins' statement that 30 per cent of present recipients of relief were unemployables, was used as the basis for determining the number of people affected. "The January case load is estimated at 58,000, a 40 per cent increase over December. We therefore, increased each

Johnson, Former Pal Of Creighton, Taken At Joplin

Hunted Since Holdup in February 1931, But Adams County Sheriff Crosson Expresses Belief Arrested Man Will Be Able to Present Alibi That Would Clear Him.

JOPLIN, Mo., Dec. 29—(AP) — Detective Chief Ed Portley announced today a man arrested here Dec. 29 had been identified through the United States bureau of identification in Washington as Virgil Johnson, 33, a former pal of James Creighton, convicted slayer.

Portley said Johnson was sought in connection with the robbery of the Hastings, Neb., bank, Feb. 25, 1931.

Sought Three Years.

HASTINGS, Neb., Dec. 29—(AP)—Virgil Johnson, 33, who is under arrest at Joplin, Mo., has been sought for more than three years in connection with the $27,173 robbery of the Hastings National bank by three men Feb. 25, 1931.

Three men broke into the bank early in the morning, and bound and gagged 13 persons. That night the robbers shot their way out of a house here when it was surrounded by a cordon of officers.

The bandits fled in two automobiles, and in one of the car was a woman and her small child. She and the driver of the car in which she rode were apprehended soon afterward.

James Thomas, driver of the car, was sentenced to 25 years in prison as one of the robbers. Jimmy Creighton, identified as another of the robbers, later was sentenced to life imprisonment in Missouri in connection with a slaying at Webb City after the robbery. The woman in the robbery case proved to be Mrs. Creighton. She was tried in connection with the robbery and gun battle, but was acuitted.

Officers here showed little interest in the report of the arrest of Johnson. County Attorney H. G. Schroeder is in Omaha and Sheriff Raymond Crosson said Johnson likely would be able to present an alibi that would absolve him from connection with the robbery here.

Condits Asks Photos.

Chief of Police W. C. Condit who worked on the Hastings robbery case as an investigator for the Nebraska Bankers' association, Saturday asked Joplin authorities to send photographs of Johnson. Condit said he would attempt to send photographs of Johnson. Condit said he would attempt to have the photos identified at Hastings. Officers have no fingerprint records of Johnson taken from the robbery scene and the identification will rest on photographs alone, he said.

American Girl Is Held In Germany

Elsa Sittell Faces Trial For Alleged Derogatory Remarks.

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press)

WALDMORE, Germany, Dec. 29—(AP)—Elsa Sittell, New York girl arrested here for alleged derogatory remarks about Adolf Hitler"s nazis, danced about merrily in her prison cell today to show her complete lack of concern over her plight.

She was awaiting without worry the arrival of United States Consul General George A. Makinson, who left Frankfort-on-Main early in the afternoon by automobile.

WALDMOHR, Germany, Dec. 29—(AP)—Miss Elsa Sittell, 25, of New York was under arrest here today as a result of derogatory remarks she is alleged to have directed at the Hitlerite storm troopers and picked nazi guards.

Miss Sittell disappeared while traveling in Germany near the French border. It was learned she stopped at Schoeneberg enroute to Gangloff and entered a restaurant where she had the conversation which apparently resulted in her arrest.

The young woman is held awaiting possible transfer to the "Sondergericht," a special court at Frankenthal, police said. The date for her hearing has not been fixed.

Miss Sittell went to Europe several weeks ago and was planning to sail for home next week.

Miss Sittell is of German parentage and speaks German fluently. She was born in Lorraine in 1909 and later came to the United States with her parents. After the World war the family took up its residence in Germany.

Miss Sittell left Paris a week ago, saying she intended to make a short visit in Germany.

Kitchen of Ripley Home Badly Damaged By Fire Saturday

Flaring up from a pan of gasoline being used for cleaning, fire damaged the kitchen of the O. A. Ripley residence, 6934 Lexington avenue, shortly before 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Mrs. Ripley who was using the gasoline to clean clothing, was not burned.

Leonard Ripley, son of Mrs. Ripley, said he was not certain how the fire started but supposed friction from rubbing the clothing ignited the inflammable cleaner. When the fire started, members of the family closed off the rest of the house and confined the blaze to the kitchen.

Firemen put down the flames but the interior of the kitchen was badly damaged, the room being smoked and the plaster crumbled. Before the fire was extinguished the flames reached the roof over the kitchen and back porch but were checked.

As Rogers Sees It

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 29 — The only trouble about this suggesting that somebody, or something ought to be investigated is that they are liable to suggest that you ought to be investigated, and from the record of all our previous investigations, it just looks like nobody can emerge with their nose entirely clean.

I don't care who you are, you just can't reach middle life without having done and said a whole lot of foolish things. If I saw an investigation committee headed my way, I would plead guilty and throw myself on the mercy of the court.

Yours, WILL.

He added that it is his understanding the gravel will be donated by the Hoppe Lumber Co. About 100 tons will be needed.

Bus Fees Paid—Payment of $3,970 was made Saturday to the state treasurer's office by the Burlington Transportation Co., covering license fees for 1935 on 25 of its passenger busses operated in Nebraska. The Interstate Transit Lines, which operates in conjunction with the Union Pacific and Northwestern railroads, is expected to pay on its 60 busses by the first of the week.

$133 For Bird Feed—The committee of the chamber of commerce junior division soliciting funds for the preservation of wild flow in this state, Friday reported total collections of $133.20 at a conference with the chairman, Joe Winterhalter. This included $21 reported today. Ray Bramson reported the largest collection, and Carl Olson was second. They were awarded prizes, and Chairman Winterhalter announced that the solicitation has been completed.

Meeting Postponed—The meeting of the Lancaster County Protective association, which was to have been held Friday afternoon at the office of County Agent Purbaugh, was postponed until January 25, when officers will be elected and other business transacted. The function of the organization is to protect farmers from theft and trespass. Arnold Eggers of Princeton is president and Charles Damrow is secretary.

Asks Increased Salary—County Commissioner Joe Cameron has filed in the office of the county clerk a claim for $133.32, that being the amount of increase in salary due him for the months of April, May, June and July, 1930. When the population of the county reached 100,000 salaries were automatically increased. The commissioners did not begin drawing the increased stipend until August, but Judge Frost in passing upon the claim of the widow of T. J. Hensley recently decided that the increase should have started in April, 1930.

West To Discuss Saar — The Saar basin plebiscite and conditions in the disputed industrial territory will be discussed by V. Royce West, language professor at Omaha Municipal university, Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock at Elm Park M. E. church, Twenty-ninth and Randolph streets. Professor West spent two years in Germany, from 1930-32, at Heidelberg, which is but a half day's drive from the Saar area. While in Germany, he heard Hitler speak several times, and has retained his interest in German affairs since returning to the United States, according to friends.

To Stop Rowdyism—Rowdyism at the skating places in the city parks must stop, L. C. Oberlies, head of the park department, said Saturday when told that a number of larger boys at Lake street lake and elsewhere have been "bullying" those who are younger. If the bullying continues steps will be taken to prohibit use of the ice to the rowdies, Mr. Oberlies warned. Skating on all lakes and ponds in the city continues good, according to James C. Lewis, and should be even better Saturday night and Sunday, as the surface of the ice will be smoothed with brooms being made for the purpose by employes of the park department.

Contempt Citation. — District Judge Chappell has cited Ezra A. Good to appear on January 14 and show cause why he should not be adjudged guilty of contempt of court and dealt with accordingly. Recently Mary Good was granted a divorce from the defendant, who was ordered to pay alimony at the rate of $25 per month, beginning November 1. It is alleged that to date he has failed to pay anything whatever.

CARE ADVISED BY PROSECUTOR

Beal Intimates Half Of People Violate Some Laws.

OMAHA, Dec. 29—(AP)—Henry Beal, retiring county attorney of Douglas county, speaking before the annual convention of the Nebraska Association of County Attorneys today, advised county attorneys to "go slow in stirring up things in your counties," saying that half the population would be in jail if violators of all laws were arrested and prosecuted.

The 12-year sentence given a man who took a child from an orphanage here was discussed by Beal. "I will gamble money that the state pardon board will let him out in three years. I consider the 12-year sentence more than he should have had," said Beal. The boy was not harmed by the man.

Another speaker this morning was William H. Wright, attorney-general-elect, who reviewed the troubles of other states in controlling liquor and explained his own views on the subject. Wright expressed opposition to state owned liquor stores and to any system giving control to local politicians.

Sale, he said, must be permitted by the drink or by the package, adding that this should be accomplished through licenses issued by a state liquor commission.

May Drop Remodeling Storeroom at Hastings Hospital; Lack Funds

Mrs. Nellie G. Benson, chairman of the board of control, Saturday said the board probably will be forced because of insufficient funds to reject bids received Friday on remodeling a storeroom into a men's dormitory at the Hastings hospital, and find other means of financing the construction or else abandon the project.

The low bid was over $2,000 above funds available for the work, a $9,000 legislative appropriation and a 30 per cent PWA grant.

As an alternative to asking the incoming legislature for more funds for construction proper, Mrs. Benton said FERA aid might be obtained, in which case the PWA grant would have to be rescinded, since it was for labor costs.

First Of Year Parties Begin New Social Cycle With Rush Of Activity; Mr. And Mrs. Krause, Miss Romans Entertain Sunday.

IF THE activities of early January are any forecast for the social panorama of 1935, it's to be a busy year—Poor old 1934 doesn't stand a chance, for it seems that the "ushering-out" ceremonies begin even as early as Sunday, with, of course, the formal ejection taking place at 12 o'clock midnight, Monday.

NEXT WEEK'S calendar, including tomorrow, is packed with interesting things—Between the hours of 2 o'clock and 5, tomorrow afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Krause are to be at home informally to their friends—And on the same afternoon, Miss Betty Romans is to be a tea hostess at her home, from 4 o'clock until 6, honoring Miss Louise Boyd, Miss Ann Gooch and Miss Clarissa Bennett, who are home from school for the holidays.

MONDAY night, naturally, there will be any number of parties, formal and informal, to bid the old year farewell and to welcome the new one.

And Tuesday, open houses will be the order of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Caldwell will follow their usual custom of receiving their friends during the afternoon, and there will probably be much hithering and thithering between the Caldwell home and that of the John Dorgans, who are also having open house for their friends.

AND IS there anyone who isn't planning to attend the Inaugural charity ball next Thursday evening? It's to be at the University of Nebraska coliseum from 9 o'clock until 12, and will be, no doubt, quite a colorful affair.

THE SUNDAY following the inaugural ball, Governor-elect and Mrs. Roy Cochran (who will then be Governor Cochran and Nebraska's first lady) will have open house at the governor's mansion. Invitations went out for the affair this morning.

BUT DECEMBER is having a little gayety in its old age—This afternoon Miss Marian Fleetwood was hostess at a bridge tea at her home. Twelve guests were invited, and following bridge, tea was served from a table made attractive with a motif of red and silver. Mrs. E. J. Fleetwood presided at the tea table.

AND THIS evening, Miss Jessica Mutz is to preside at a holiday supper dance for twenty-four guests at her home, honoring Miss Janet Lau and Miss Elizabeth Waugh who are home from Dana hall for their vacation period. Suggestions of the New Year will be introduced in the decorations and the favors. A buffet supper will be served at 11 o'clock.

UNDERSTAND that Miss Julia Kester of Washington, D. C., who has been visiting in Lincoln during the holiday season, left Friday evening. Thursday evening, Miss Marian Fleetwood entertained informally at dinner as a courtesy to Miss Kester. Places were arranged for six.

HEARD THIS morning that Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fawell of Wichita, Kas., were leaving today after spending Christmas with Mr. Fawell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fawell.

AND HOME again after spending Christmas with their daughter, Mrs. Monroe Gleason and Mr. Gleason and their children, in Denver, are Mr. and Mrs. Will Raymond.

ANOTHER holiday guest, Mrs. N. P. Ogden of Atchison, Kas., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Fred Caldwell and Mr. Caldwell the past week, will leave for her home Sunday afternoon.

LEAVING early in January for New York City from where they will sail January 12 on the SS Resolute, will be Mr. and Mrs. George Schwake on their around the world cruise. They expect to land at Los Angeles, May 11.

MORE reservations for the Eastridge Country club New Year's eve dinner dance—In a no host group will be Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lawrie, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gove, and Mrs. Gove's sister, Mrs. Mary Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Don Wachter, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Foley of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. James Taig of Council Bluffs, Miss Rose Heider and Mr. Hermanson.

In a foursome will ,be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dice and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Patz.

H. J. McCarty has reservations for four, and together for dinner and the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Gregg McBride and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Austin. Mr. and Mrs. Ross Idol will have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Powell.

MISS MARY DOUTHIT WEDS A. BOATSMAN

The altar of the First Presbyterian church in Beatrice, with a soft motif of pink and green, formed the background for the marriage of Miss Mary Margaret Douthit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Douthit of Beatrice, and Alford Boatsman, also of that city, Saturday at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Ross S. McCown, the pastor, officiated in the presence of two hundred guests. Ferns were massed on the altar and on either side were seven branch candelabra holding pink tapers, with the white satin kneeling cushion before the greenery background.

Miss Josephine Waddell played an organ prelude as the guests were assembling and accompanied Mrs. Harold Stout, who sang "At Dawning" and "O Promise Me." Miss Waddell offered the Lohengrin bridal chorus for the entrance of the processional and the Mendelssohn music for the recessional. During the taking of the vows, she accompanied with "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "How Can I Leave Thee."

Mrs. Irvin Deeter of Omaha, as matron of honor, wore floor length cocoa velvet, with harmonizing hat and slippers. Her yellow roses were tied with yellow ribbon.

Barrett Hamilton of Kansas City served as Mr. Boatsman's groomsman. The ushers were Harrison Scott, Fred Stoll, Dean Coonley and Harold Collier, all of Beatrice.

For her wedding gown, the bride chose pink satin fashioned en train. With it, she had a blending jacket in velvet, with cape sleeves caught tight at the wrist, and a pink velvet turban and slippers. Her ornament was a necklace, the groom's gift. Mrs. Boatsman carried a shower of butterfly roses and sweet peas, tied with blue ribbon.

Mrs. Douthit, mother of the bride, was gowned in black velvet and a black turban. Her flowers were a corsage of pink rosebuds and sweet peas.

A reception for the guests followed in the church parlors. Mrs. A. E. Bray and Mrs. H. M. Garrett poured at the table which was centered with pink roses and pink tapers. They were assisted in serving by Misses Lillian Garrett, Verona Fellers, Margaret Ayres, Evelyn Leeper, Kathyrn Pyle, and Arlene Vanderhook. Mrs. Ernest Hubka was in charge.

For her wedding trip, Mrs. Boatsman is traveling in rust boucle, with accessories in brown. The couple will reside in Beatrice.

MARY PICKFORD PRESSES ACTION FOR A DIVORCE

Attorney Ordered to Go Ahead Immediately After First of Year.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29—(AP)—Mary Pickford pressed for final action today in her divorce suit against Douglas Fairbanks.

Announcement by her attorney, Lloyd Wright, that he had been instructed "to go ahead with the divorce immediately after the first of the year," repudiated all reports that a reconciliation between the movie colony's "first couple" would be reached.

The way for "America's Sweetheart" to obtain a quick divorce was cleared yesterday when her attorney filed in Superior court an affidavit showing that service on Fairbanks in the suit, filed more than a year ago, had been completed by mail.

Miss Pickford made no comment on her decision to press the suit, which she filed shortly before Christmas a year ago.

Fairbanks, reported to be in New York, was unavailable for comment.

To Ask Date for Trial.

Wright said he would next ask that the case be set for trial, thus making it possible, should the case go by default, for Miss Pickford to obtain a divorce within approximately 30 days.

Fairbanks has not answered Miss Pickford's complaint which charged neglect and incompatibility. Should the actor fail to answer by the time the suit is called for trial, or the court be satisfied that service was legal, and the grounds stated in Miss Pickford's complaint are sufficient, the interlocutory decree may be entered at once. Miss Pickford would have to wait a year for a final decree.

Since Fairbanks' return several months ago from Europe, where he was named co-respondent in the divorce suit brought by Lord Ashley against the former Sylvia Hawks of musical comedy fame, the actor and Miss Pickford had been seen together frequently. Several times it was rumored they were on the verge of patching their differences.

Doug Slams Door.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(INS)—Wearing jade pajamas and a maroon dressing gown, Douglas Fairbanks, sr., poked his head outside his bedroom door today and encountered, of all things, a reporter.

"What about Mary?" shot the reporter.

"I have nothing whatsoever to say."

"How long are you staying in New York?"

"Not much longer. I'm going to Switzerland soon."

"And will you and Lady Ashley—"

"The interview," Doug said, "is concluded."

Whereupon the door slammed with a reverberation that rocked the reporter on his heels.

Two Lads On Parole From Juvenile Court, Steal Purse and $10

Two boys, 11 and 12 years old, who two weeks ago were paroled from Juvenile court for shoplifting and "snitching" from a cash register admitted the theft of a purse containing $10 from an office in the Security Mutual building, Police Lt. Elmer Beals said Saturday.

The purse, belonging to Mrs. Charles Evans, 1321 North Twenty-seventh street, a secretary in an attorney's office, was taken Friday morning. When approached the boys denied the theft but after a ride with Beals in a police car, showed the officer where they cached the purse and where they had hidden five of the 10 dollars taken from the purse.

The younger boy, Beals said, admitted the actual theft of the purse, and said. "I don't know why I did it unless it was temptation just got me."

FERA To Open Overall Factory at Omaha to Give 150 Women Jobs

An overall factory to give work to 150 women on relief each month, and with an output of 2,250 garments will begin operation in Omaha the first of the year, J. R. Carnahan, state director of the FERA work division announced Saturday.

Carnahan stated that a Lincoln manufacturing company had approached the FERA offering its overall factory for setting up a similar work project here. "It was a good, acceptable offer but we could not take advantage of it because we do not have enough women on relief to run the project."

Day Made President Of Nebraska Bar; Electricity Expected Make Platte Valley

Delehant, Field And Perry Are Chosen Vice Presidents

Attorneys Want Chance To Investigate Proposed Alibis.

OMAHA, Dec. 29—(AP)—L. B. Day, justice of the Supreme court, was elected president of the Nebraska Bar association which concluded a two day convention here Friday.

Former Governor Charles S. Whitman of New York exhorted the attorneys to take the leadership in directing the nation back to the "safe pathway pointed out by the founders of our constitution."

"Prepare to do your part," he urged, "when, with the depression emergency past, America tries to unscramble the hectic centralization, undo the abdication of personal liberties, and restore the suspended guarantees of our constitution."

Vice presidents chosen were John W. Delehant of Beatrice, Allen W. Field of Lincoln and C. G. Perry of Bridgeport. Harvey Johnsen of Omaha was reelected secretary and Virgil J. Haggart of Omaha, treasurer.

Propose Legislation.

Among recommendations of the legislation committee approved was one requiring that in criminal cases, where the defense is an alibi, the county attorney be notified in writing of the nature of the alibi and the witnesses to be called at least 25 hours before the time the case is set for trial.

Another statute recommended would enable judges to transmit judgments or other final orders by mail in cases which had been taken under advisement.

Phi Delta Phi eelcted Roland Rodman of Kimball chairman for next year. H. H. Wilson, and Allen W. Field of Lincoln, spoke.

Phi Alpha Delta elected Richard O. Johnson president, Barlowe Nye vice president and Winfield Elmen Secretary-treasurer. All are of Lincoln.

John J. Ledwith of Lincoln, retiring president, was toastmaster at the thirty-fifth annual dinner Friday night.

James T. Keeefe of North Platte, one of the dinner speakers, urged that the association work for an amendment to the state constitution providing for longer terms and higher salaries for judges.

"Perhaps we should go even further and pension them when they are through," he said.

Swanson Adopts New Rule on Checks Due To Exchange Charges

Many banks in Nebraska are now making special exchange charges for checks written by their depositors making out-of-town transactions, and Secretary of State Swanson's office ran up against this practice Friday for the first time when nearly a dozen items of that kind were turned over to it by State Treasurer Hall.

In each case, the secretary of state had accepted payment by checks for fees due his office. But when the checks got back to the banks on which they were drawn the banks "docked" the state for the amount of their collection charges, and in making remittance to their correspondent banks in Lincoln and Omaha they withhold these amounts. As a result, the state's credit on its depository accounts was reduced.

Secretary Swanson will write to each person who paid by check and ask to have the difference made up by another remittance. The postage expense, however, will leave the state just as far behind as ever. Swanson cannot accept less than the full amount of the fee specified by law in each case.

Hereafter, his office will accept no checks unless they are written "with exchange," and other state departments that wish to avoid loss on their collections will have to adopt the same rule.

W. Edgar Gates Named Officer Coal Dealers

W. Edgar Gates of Lincoln was elected to the office of second vice president of the Northwestern Retail Coal Dealers association, at a meeting of the board of directors held at Minneapolis Friday, according to an Associated Press dispatch. T. P. Heffelfinger of Minneapolis was elected president, to succeed J. Dane of Iowa City, who recently resigned following his election as a member of the national retail code authority.

ROOSEVELT WORKS ON HIS MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—President Roosevelt denied himself to business callers today and charted a week-end devoted entirely to finishing his legislative and budget messages to congress.

The president arranged for a conference late today with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, to go over plans for the coming session of congress.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES.

(Special to The Star.)

STELLA, Neb., Dec. 29—Mrs. T. H. Winfrey entertained with a tea Thursday afternoon in celebration of the fifty-first wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Vandeveer of Creighton, former residents of this community, who are spending the holidays at Stella. On Christmas eve Mr. Winfrey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Winfrey of Stella, passed their sixty-first wedding anniversary.

Watkins Cites Perkins Experiment For Proof Shelter Belt Feasible

An experimental planting of a three-row windbreak on a farm in Perkins county five years ago is the proof that Clayton W. Watkins, director of the federal shelterbelt project in Nebraska gives when showing that trees will grow in Nebraska soil without frequent watering.

Watkins planted the trees while he was extension forester at the Nebraska agricultural college, and he said today that the "miniature shelterbelt" on the farm of Fred Bahnsen, near Grant, "ought to convince anyone that the federal tree planting is feasible."

"The experiment was carried on in the region where shelterbelt officials expect to encounter the most difficulty," Watkins said, in labeling it as an "acid test" for the project.

The outer row of Russian olives reached an average height of nine and a half feet, the second row of Chinese elms averaged 15 and a half feet, and the inner row of Ponderosa (Bull) pines grew to an average height of two feet. Watkins returned this week from an inspection of his planting and was enthusiastic about the results.

Munger Returns From Conference of Judges

Federal Judge T. C. Munger was back at his desk Saturday morning after a two-day conference with federal district and circuit judges of the eighth circuit at Kansas City. The judge conferred there on the Supreme court's revision of rules of procedure in civil cases.

Judge Munger read a paper on juries. Supreme Court Justice Butler was present at the meeting, but did not make a formal talk. He was merely gathering data for the revision work, Judge Munger said.

Commenting on Judge Merrill E. Otis' decision finding the price-fixing features of the NRA unconstitutional, Judge Munger said, "It may be the Dred Scott case of the NRA." He said Judge Otis, who made his decision while the conference was in session, is a very capable and intelligent jurist.

PUT COFFEE ON AG COMMITTEE

Nebraska Delegation To Back Chadron Man For Place.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—Harry B. Coffee, Nebraska's advocate of an export bounty plan for surplus farm products, Friday night was given the unanimous support of his own delegation in a bid for a place on the house agricultural committee, and most of the Nebraska delegation agreed to support Representative Bankhead of Alabama for the majority leadership.

The four democrats from Nebraska who will serve in the coming congress caucused with Senator-elect Burke sitting in on the session to aid them with advice from his experience in the house during the past two years.

Besides Coffee's bid for a place on the agricultural committee, the delegation agreed to work for a place on the education committee for C. Luckey, banking for C. G. Binderup and judiciary for F. McLaughlin. Luckey also had been anxious to try for the agricultural committee, but the group harmoniously settled the question whether he or Coffee should be pushed.

Coffee, McLaughlin and Luckey apparently all were pledged to support Bankhead, but Binderup was inclined to favor Rankin of Mississippi because of Rankin's interest in the power question. The quartet also decided to vote for Byrns of Tennessee for the speakership.

Conferences of the Nebraska delegation at least once a week during the congressional session were agreed upon as a means of co-ordinating the delegation's efforts for Nebraska interests. The two Nebraska republicans, Norris and Stefan, also will be asked to participate in the conferences.

A Bigger Universe
By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Donald Richberg, sometimes called President Roosevelt's "managing editor," tells business men they ought to create jobs, and business must "do its part." Many will detect an ominous tone in Mr. Richberg's statement.

"Perhaps it might be cheaper, even in a money sense, to find work for those idle hands to do than to support the armies necessary to hold them back if once those pleading fingers were turned into threatening claws."

Nobody wants to see "pleading fingers turned into threatening claws," to borrow Mr. Richberg's powerful simile, but creating jobs, except when government does it, is difficult. A business man cannot indefinitely employ clerks that he doesn't need, if he wants to stay in business.

An industrialist cannot continue turning out goods with no one to buy them.

Mr. Richberg, an able man, renders public service when he talks so frankly. His statement, "the greatest dangers that threaten America are those of internal dissension," makes you think hard.

It is not pleasant to think what might happen if the government decided to discontinue its spending, and pile up an unbearable load of bond and interest indebtedness.

Coming from Mr. Richberg, who is so close to the administration, this new year pessimism is disturbing.

Professor Einstein announces that he may have been mistaken in his belief that the universe is limited. He thinks now that it may be limitless.

It has been suggested here that Professor Jeans and others accepted too hastily the Einstein theory that space is a contraption folding over on itself so that, looking at a universe three hundred million light years way, and going on a little farther, you might look all the way around and see another side of the universe, like a man with a circular telescope looking around the earth and seeing his own back.

Professor Einstein is one of the greatest mathematical intellects that ever lived, but undertaking to limit the universe, however, even by the most ingenious space-time combinations, is dangerous.

A small crab standing on the edge of the Pacific could form no clear idea of that ocean and the land beyond it. And a human being, even with his two hundred-inch reflector and his marvelous higher mathematics, can hardly hope to measure this universe or answer satisfactorily the question: "What is beyond?"

Two days more, and 1934 slips into the past and into the hands of historians. They may say about it, things that will surprise us, for, like a fly on a big oil painting, we are too close to events to know just what they mean.

There is one small lesson that might be gathered by the dullest, namely, work hard and keep part of what you earn, if you want peace in this world.

MASON-SHEFFERD.

(Special to The Star.)

STELLA, Neb., Dec. 29—George Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mason, and Miss Margaret Shefferd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Shefferd, were married Thursday afternoon by Rev. R. M. Bailey at the Prairie Union Baptist parsonage.

John W. Penny, Nebraska Pioneer And Early Freighter, Dies At 94

JOHN W. PENNY.

Funeral services for John W. Penny, 94, pioneer Nebraskan who died at a Milford hospital Friday afternoon, will be held at Volland's chapel at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon with further services Monday afternoon at Omaha and interment at Forest Lawn cemetery there.

Mr. Penny, who came to Nebraska in 1858 and who was one of the earliest living pioneers, had been in failing health for more than a year. For about a year and a half, before going to Milford last spring, to live again at the Soldier's home, he made his home with a daughter, Mrs. W. C. Pike, 2822 R street.

At the age of 19 Mr. Penny came to Omaha with his father and brother in a covered wagon with the intention of seeking gold in Colorado. The trio decided, however, that freighting would be a more profitable venture and they outfitted what came to be known as the largest cattle train that ever left Nebraska City for the west.

Recalled Fights With Indians.

Until the Union Pacific came Mr. Penny operated the wagon train. He often told of fights with the Indians in which wagons, cargo and cattle were all destroyed. One of his heaviest contracts called for hauling the first telegraph wire—12 loads of it—to Fort Laramie.

During the Civil war he was a sergeant with the Second Kansas infantry. Later he was a scout and a spy. Following the war he returned to Omaha and married Lucy L. Evans on August 31, 1865. She died a year or two ago.

Sheriff of Cedar County.

For three terms Mr. Penny was elected sheriff of Cedar county beginning in 1867. That period went down in history as the "bad man" time of northeast Nebraska but Sheriff Penny was successful in quelling many of the disorders.

Later he returned to Omaha and operated a cattle yard for 22 years. During that time he was a power in local and county politics. During those years his vast knowledge of the plains country caused him to be called on many times to accompany cattle trains across the state.

He was 94 years old last April 5.

Beside Mrs. Pike he is survived by five grandchildren; three great grandchildren and a sister in California.

MERGER OF WIRE SERVICES LOOMS

Consolidation of All Communications Systems To Be Proposed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—A law to permit one of the most tremendous mergers ever conceived will be recommended to congress, the Washington Post says, by the federal communications commission.

It would permit a consolidation of all wire, telegraph, cable and wireless services controlled by American interests. The recommendiation to be made before February 1 will bear, the paper asserts, at least the tacit approval of President Roosevelt.

Waiving the anti-trust laws, the legislation would make the following companies eligible to join: International Telephone & Telegraph Co., which controls the Postal Telegraph Co.; R. C. A. Communications, Inc., and Western Union. I. T. & T. operates also in both the field of cable and radio, the R. C. A. radio networks spread to about 40 countries, and Western Union, besides its great telegraph system has a wide cable service.

A proviso against wholesale layoffs of workers will be contained in the legislation as outlined in the Post. Telegraph unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor had opposed consolidation, during the commission's hearings, on the ground it would spell more unemployment. In reply it was argued that new telegraph offices could be opened in towns now lacking them, and a retirement plan could take care of the older employes.

Rehabilitation Farm Is Planned At Omaha

FERA Takes Option On 1,200 Acres Of Land; Seventh In State.

Options on 1,200 acres of land lying between the Elkhorn and Platte rivers in Douglas county have been taken by the state FERA, L. A. White, rural rehabilitation director announced Saturday in confirmation of previous reports.

The land will be used to set up the largest rehabilitation farmstead project in the state, providing homes for 75 to 100 Douglas county relief families, White said. He stated, however, that the land has not been purchased and definite plans and details will be developed only after final purchase is made.

There are six other farmstead projects in the state at Kearney, South Sioux City, Fairbury, Grand Island, Falls City and Loup City. They accommodate 10 to 25 families each.

PARTY TONIGHT AT WHITE HOUSE FOR YOUNG ROOSEVELTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—A week-end house party at the white house for friends of the younger Roosevelts gave a collegiate atmosphere today to the staid executive mansion.

Ten visiting girls and 13 boys from eastern states arrived to attend a dance tonight which the president and Mrs. Roosevelt are giving for their sons. Franklin, jr., and John, Harvard students.

The girls are quartered in the executive mansion itself and the boys are in a hotel across the street.

Honor guests for the occasion are Barbara Cushing, whose sister is wife of the president's son, James, and Jane Martineau, whose mother is the president's first cousin.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt have invited 50 guests in all to dinner, and about 250 to the east room dancing party immediately afterward. All of the guests are personal friends of the Roosevelt boys, who compiled the list.

PORK FOR NEEDY.

WILBER, Neb., Dec. 29—About 700 pounds of pork was distributed to needy families in Wilber this week by a number of businessmen. The money used for the purchase of the meat was part of the surplus funds from the carnival held here last summer.

secretary. This is what the five senators from Douglas county intend to do about it. If Paul Halpine of Omaha should enter the race and has all the votes from his county behind him, he will be a formidable candidate.

No fewer than six men are after the job as sergeant-at-arms of the senate. George L. Santo of Lincoln, who held it two years ago, is asking to be given the same place again. His 1933 assistant, William Hughes of Auburn, is another aspirant. Then there are three senators of the previous session—F. E. McCormick of Wolbach, James P. Murray of Sargent, and Watson L. Purdy of Madison—offering themselves for the sergeant post. And for good measure, H. R. Cleve, Nebraska City, is after the post, too.

Wide Open Scramble.

The house speakership contest is still a free-for-all scramble with W. H. O'Gara of Laurel and John Havekost of Hooper apparently leading the other five or six candidates, but nobody is assured of a majority in the caucus and anything might happen.

J. H. Steuteville of Bridgeport, the "farthest west" aspirant for speaker, has a fair prospect to be chairman of the judiciary committee if he doesn't land in the chair. The judiciary head is next in rank to the speaker and presides at regular sessions in the latter's absence.

Rep. Trenmor Cone of Valley said Saturday afternoon he would circulate the official call for the house caucus. Cone said that while he was not out of the race for speakership, "anymore than I've ever been in it," he would favor several other aspirants in preference to O'Gara.

The close harmony in which O'Gara and Havekost are working is significant in view of a prediction made by a veteran house member that the speakership "will be decided on one ballot." Indications are that the winner of the speakership race will support the loser for chairmanship of the powerful committee on committees.

Despite strong indications that the speakership lies between O'Gara and Havekost, none of the other candidates has conceded the outcome, and efforts are under way to save their feelings and maintain harmony in the demo majority. Rep. J. I. Stringfellow, Oakdale, in this connection, thinks it desirable to make committee concessions to Rep. Trenmor Cone, a candidate for the speakership, stating that Cone is interested in a place on the committee of committees and also chairmanship of the insurance committee.

Omaha Has Own Ideas.

Although Cone may carry enough weight with the house members at large to land an important place in the house organization, it is recognized that the other 12 members of the Douglas county delegation will have different views on the matter. Cone is the only Douglas county representative outside of Omaha, and the city members have already met and settled upon committee assignments among themselves, including the two places on the committee on committees which are allotted to the second congressional district.

In the past, Cone has always been disregarded by the Douglas county delegation when it came to committee plums.

Cochran Keeps Away.

While these maneuvers are taking place, Governor-elect Cochran is maintaing a strictly hands off policy in regard to organization of the legislature. Cochran believes organization of the legislature is outside his province and doesn't want to run the risk of being found backing the losing sides, or does he care to be with the winners and incur the hostility of the losers. Cochran himself has let this be known, and Saturday his private secretary, Theo Osterman, emphasized the governor-elect's views.

Stewart announced the following results of a questionaire on liquor control in his district, comprising Adams and Clay counties:

For separating beer and liquor sales 60, against 40.
For sale liquor by drink 21, against 78.

For sale of liquor on doctor's orders 15, against 75.

Crawford Warns Short Story Is Facing A Crisis

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—(AP)—Professor R. P. Crawford of the University of Nebraska told the American Association of Teachers of Journalism that "The American short story, as far as literary magazines are concerned, is facing possible extinction unless someone can find something to do about it."

"The new deal," he said, "has resulted in people wanting facts, and then more facts, and in the meanwhile the stock of the journalist with his store of facts is steadily rising, and that of the writer of literary short stories is going down.

"Quackery in the short story is as prevalent as it ever was in medicine and writers have gone far beyond realism, so much so that the characters and situations no longer portray American life."

Lancaster County Insurance Case In U. S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—The State Automobile Insurance association of Des Moines, Ia., carried to the Supreme court its contest against a Lancaster county, Neb., court judgment holding it liable under an accident insurance policy issued to Burt Poska of Lincoln for damages arising out of the death of Clarence T. Glick.

Glick was killed while riding in an automobile operated by Poska. Unable to collect on a $10,000 judgment against Poska, Glick's widow won a judgment against the association in the Lancaster county District court, which was affirmed by the Nebraska Supreme court. The association contends a federal court previously had decided its policy did not insure against the accident which resulted in Glick's death.

Neville Tells Members Of Chamber Future Very Bright

Low Priced Power Is To Revolutionize Conditions.

KEARNEY, Neb., Dec. 29—(AP)—The associated chambers of commerce of the lower Platte valley meeting here Friday recommended completion of work on two paving projects, urged an appropriation of funds with which to fight any efforts of Wyoming to impound or divert waters of the Platte river, and urged restoration of the embargo on alfalfa importations from certain areas in Idaho and Oregon.

Eighty-two members representing eleven cities in the district attended the all-day meeting, which was featured by an address by former Governor Keith Neville.

Neville pictured a vast publicly owned power generation and distribution system that will reduce rates "fully as much as Canada's plants." He said he sees the Sutherland and Columbus projects as the nucleus of a vast power domain.

"Low cost electricity will revolutionize conditions in the Platte valley," Neville said. "The Sutherland project is public property, owned by the citizens of Platte valley, and there is no doubt in my mind that a publicly owned distribution system will follow use of the publicly owned generating systems."

Commenting on the Tri-county project Neville said there is not enough water available to fill the Sutherland reservoir and also the Plum creek reservoir originally contemplated in the project. Hence, he said, the plans were not approved in their original state. As modified, he said he believes the plan is practical and acceptable and "will be built when money can be obtained."

The group recommended completion of the paving from North Platte to Pendleton and the resurfacing of No. 138 from Big Spring to Julesburg.

Remoulding Relief

THE NEWS from Washington Friday furnished a much more concise and definite view of the plans now being drafted by the federal government in connection with pressing problems of relief. Through Administrator Harry Hopkins, it has been indicated that the states, or the local communities, would be asked to assume the burden of supporting and caring for the "unemployables."

The term itself needs explanation.

There never has been a period, even during the "boom" era, when business reached the highest pitch, and when most every able-bodied man could find work, that there was not a problem of relief. It arose out of the fact that there always has been a certain number who, through sickness, misfortune, or for some other reason, could not work and were dependent upon charitable agencies for support. Sometimes these problems were met through the county poor farm; on other occasions by direct assistance from the county; still other instances by the private charity organizations, and finally, by individuals.

Since the federal relief program got under way, there has been a steady merging of all types of cases—those physically unfit to work along with those who were anxious to work, but had been unable to find employment through no fault of their own. The relief rolls in all states have been rising in point of numbers, due to this transfer of the so-called "unworkables" to a place in the federal program. It brought hundreds of thousands on Uncle Sam's back, who never belonged there, but who, on the contrary, were direct charges against the community in which they resided. If congress adopts the attitude of the president and of his advisers, this responsibility then will be transferred back to the states. The federal program itself will be developed strictly as a work plan, and those receiving aid from the federal government will be expected to perform useful and valuable services in discharging their responsibilities.

Nebraska's interest arises out of the fact that many counties in this state lack both the facilities and the funds to assume the burden. The financial problem is complicated because of the long continued depression and the devastating drouth of the summer of 1934. In some of these counties, the aggregate of uncollected taxes is large, and the mere gesture of fixing new levies does not mean anything at all. With the burden of caring for the "unworkables" thrown back to the states, there will need to be careful study and thought on the part of members of county boards, unless unfortunate people be subjected to unnecessary suffering.

The region most sorely afflicted by drouth includes both the Dakotas, a part of Minnesota, southern Iowa, a portion of Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, and Montana. In formulating its program, it would be well for the federal government to give special consideration and thought to these states, and if it seems advisable to make necessary concessions to prevent helpless people from experiencing hunger and cold.

On the whole, the program being drafted in Washington will meet with approval. In most of the cases, the man on relief, if he is able to work, has wanted a job instead of charity. He has insisted upon employment to sustain his morale and his self pride. The other type of case, the permanent or more or less permanent ward of charity, raises an entirely different problem and in no way is directly or indirectly connected with the conditions arising out of the depression.

Nebraska's Delegation.

IF MEMBERS of the new Nebraska congressional delegation continue along the path they have started they will without doubt be able to accomplish a great deal for the state that has honored them. The democrats have called a conference at which it is proposed to discuss matters of interest to Nebraska and they have invited to join them the two republican members of the delegation, Senator Norris and Representative-elect Stefan.

There is no apparent reason why all seven of the Nebraskans cannot work in perfect harmony. Both of the men wearing republican labels are liberal in their convictions and are just as deeply interested in legislation for the benefit of the people of this state as are their democratic colleagues, so it is to be expected that there will be little if any friction.

Nebraska has much to look forward to during the next year or two, and a strong and united delegation from the state can do much to bring about the things so much desired. In the first place strenuous effort must be made to provide for the development of the water projects, which are essential to the continued agricultural progress of the state, and which are for the time being hung up at the national capital.

Nebraska is also interested in the great lakes-St. Lawrence waterway treaty, which will bring ocean steamers a thousand miles nearer to this section of the country, thus lowering carrying charges on the products of Nebraska farms, as well as on many of the commodities consumed in the agricultural region.

In fact Nebraskans are interested in anything and everything that has to do with agriculture, and it is just as keen for the defeat of hostile legislation as it is for the enactment of that which will be beneficial to the people of this part of the country.

A Lesson in Overproduction.

A MONTH ago the annual harvest of Christmas trees was under way in Michigan. Hundreds of men were sent out to cut down growing firs, larches, and other evergreens, while others hauled them away in trucks or prepared them for shipment by rail to distant points. The same activities were carried on in other northern areas, so that the homes and business establishments of the country might be supplied with the traditional centerpiece at Yuletide.

It appears now that the business was somewhat overdone, and that many more Christmas trees were cut and distributed than were needed for an adequate celebration of the Santa Claus holiday. In Michigan itself this excess production was very much in evidence. The day after Christmas found vacant lots in Detroit densely packed with unopened bundles of trees. Other unused quantities of them were left in trucks and at overnight business stands put up on many street corners.

With no further demand for them, the only thing left was to pile the trees up and burn them. The Michigan metropolis had a lot of public bonfires with this sort of fuel during the past week.

That represents a dead loss for a good many dealers. But the loss was not confined to the trees actually wasted. The market was so much oversupplied that prices had dropped before Christmas to 15 and 25 cents for good specimens, and in some cases customers were invited to take their pick and pay whatever they thought was fair.

The trade in Christmas trees, of course, represents only a minor fraction of the whole volume of merchandising, and what losses may have been suffered on them in communities where excessive supplies were laid in will not bankrupt many dealers. But if the supply had been held down to something like the demand, they would not have had these losses to overcome in the sale of other goods. They could then have sold the trees at a fair profit and had fewer of them going to waste after Christmas.

What happened in regard to Christmas trees provides an illustration of the larger difficulties the federal government is attempting to overcome in preventing overproduction of wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, sugar, tobacco, and other staples on which farmers and live stock growers depend for their livelihood. The idea back of all the various crop control programs that have been undertaken is to keep supplies within reasonable limits, so that demand will always assure fair prices to the producers.

If some feasible way can be found to hold in check the output of Christmas trees, petroleum, and various other commodities heretofore produced in greater quantities than the markets will absorb, it will contribute materially to the return of general prosperity.

QUESTION.
Lansing, Mich.

I have been told by a man for whom I have great respect that my judgment had no shading, that everything was either white or black and that because of this I did not perceive the finer issues of truth. This has bothered me and I would like you to tell me how I may overcome this handicap.

ANSWER.

Yours is a question that many of us could ask to our advantage. The verdict of absolutely right or absolutely wrong is limited to a few basically fundamental issues. Beyond those approved or condemned by common consent are hosts of matters which are relative and must be qualified. Take for example the writing of anonymous letters. Hasty judgment decrees this practice an abomination and the act of a coward who does not have the courage to sign his name, and the weight of opinion favors the decree. But such letters have often been written for laudable purposes. They have saved lives, stopped immoral practices, prevented bitter antagonisms and ended prolonged quarrels. When in the reign of James the First of England a friend anonymously warned a member of the House of Commons that it was about to be blown up by a political fanatic he prevented a national catastrophe. One has to bear in mind the purpose of such communications in passing judgment on them.

There is a striking comment in Notelliansky's volume on the novelist Tchekhov, who wrote in his diary "Between 'there is a God' and 'there is no God' lies a whole vast tract which a wise man crosses only with great labor. A Russian knows only one of these two extremes, but the middle course has no interest for him; therefore he usually knows nothing, or very little." It is the feeling for this middle course that you and many others of us lack. We are disposed to answer all questions with Yes or No in the interest of certainty and simplicity. This is a misleading habit. Life is too complex, subtle and mysterious for such summary treatment.

Yet in the prevailing rage for a new economic order, the wholesale condemnation and the cocksure assertiveness which hamstring correct thinking are very prevalent, and numerous zealots flourish in nearly all camps who assure you they have the sure remedy for our social ills. On the other hand, we have to endure the spirit of cynical skepticism which scorns nailing one's colors to the mast, and reckons it a bit of delusive heroics. The Frenchman whose customary reply to difficult questions was "Perhaps yes, perhaps no, perhaps neither the one nor the other," constituted an obviously safe but utterly useless answer.

Here the New Testament maxim "Let your moderation be known to all men" is the guiding principle to follow in formulating your judgment of men and events.

QUESTION.
Dayton, Ohio.

Has the recent drouth taught the nation anything about the needs of agriculture?

ANSWER.

It should have done so. Its severity, long continuance and wide extent have been a national calamity. But if from this calamity the people of the United States learn how to co-operate on an equally wide scale the sequel can be beneficial for all concerned.

The cry of thousands of farmers who face ruin that they must have water ought to enforce upon city dwellers the need for adequate reserves of farm produce to be maintained from season to season. It is high time that we who depend on tillers of the soil for our food supplies awoke to the fact that they have been shamefully neglected. Their direct relief in various ways is not enough to meet the demands of the agricultural situation. Through the prolonged depression they unfailingly served the nation by growing and marketing at the old rates, and even at a loss, ample provisions for its daily consumption.

The city dwellers need to realize what that service cost and appreciate the sacrifice and heroic endurance it involved. The cheap sneers of stupid urbanites launched against hayseeds and rubes should be silenced by a decent sense of the vital benefits they have conferred upon us all. Let us therefore help those who suffer most, cultivate new reverence for the husbandman as the outstanding figure in our industrial life, and likewise for the goodness of God in giving to many unthinking men and women seed time and harvest without fail. The rugged individualism so lightly regarded by too many just now is still in evidence on the countless farms of the land.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Full House

Some people like to be alone,
But I am happy with my own.
—Bobby Coon.

In the moonlight Bobby Coon sat gossiping with Jerry Muskrat at the edge of the Smiling Pool.

"I see," said Bobby, "that you have a fine new house over yonder."

"Yes," replied Jerry. "Mrs. Jerry and I have worked hard enough on it to have it fine. Won't you come over and see it?"

"Thank you, I'll take your word for it that it is as fine as it looks," replied Bobby. "You know I am no diver, and I suspect that the entrance to that house is somewhere under water."

Jerry grinned. "Right," said he. "I am so used to entering that way that I forgot my neighbors are not used to it. It does save a lot of annoyance from undesirable visitors. By the way, where do you live, Bobby Coon?"

"Back there in the Green Forest in a tree," replied Bobby. "Your doorway is down under water, while mine is high in the air. Very few ever bother to climb up there, so I am saved this sort of annoyance just as you are. By the way, do you live alone over in that house?"

Jerry shook his head vigorously. "Certainly not," replied. "Mrs. Jerry and I live together there and a couple of the children will spend the winter with us. I don't like living alone."

"Neither do I," replied Bobby. "When we are all at home there is quite a family of us, all there is room for in the hollow of that tree. You see, there are four children and their mother besides myself, and when we are all packed in there we have a full house."

"I should think you would if all are as fat as you," replied Jerry.

Bobby grinned good-naturedly. "Mrs. Bobby is fully as big and quite as fat," said he. "As for the children, of course they have not attained their growth yet, but they are of good size and fat, for we have had good living this fall. When the real cold weather comes we'll all curl up together and keep each other warm. So far we haven't all been at home at the same time, but when the weather turns too cold for comfort we'll all be together."

"I should think you would, if all are as fat as you," replied Jerry.

Jerry thought this over for a few minutes. Said he at length: "Of course, I know you are out hunting food every night, so I take it you sleep during the day. Aren't you all at home for the daily sleep?"

Bobby shook his head. 'Not all of us," said he. "Sometimes there will be two or three or more, but never all of us."

"Where are those who don't come home?" asked Jerry.

"I take it," replied Bobby, "that you have a den in the bank besides that house out there in the water."

"Of course. Naturally," said Jerry, looking puzzled.

"And I presume you know of some other holes in the bank that you might use if you wanted to," continued Bobby.

Jerry nooded. "Well, that is the way it is with us," explained Bobby. "We have certain places where we can sleep when we happen to be too far from home to go back there. You know we Coons travel quite a bit; so we know certain hollows in trees, hollow logs, and holes under rocks where we may safely spend a day or so. But all winter we will be together, and I have an idea that we will be having the house full very soon now."

DIET and HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "The Human Body"

NOBEL PRIZED CONFERRED ON AMERICAN PHYSICIANS.

American physicians are this year the recipients of the Nobel prize, and it is timely that Dr. Henry E. Sigerist's interesting book called 'American Medicine,' should call our attention to the historical contributions of the United States to the science of medicine.

Dr. Clendening

His list of distinguished American physicians is a long one. There is Benjamin Rush of Philadelphia, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, Dr. Clendening and one of the earliest physicians to describe yellow fever and focal infection from the teeth.

There is that courageous Ephraim McDowell, who performed one of the first abdominal operations in the world in what was then the back woods of Kentucky. There is Daniel Drake of Cincinnati, who described the diseases of the great river valleys of our middle western country.

There is William Beaumont, who founded our knowledge of the physiology of digestion. There are Samuel Gross and J. Marion Sims, pioneers in surgery.

The remarkable thing is that all these men did their work in the unconquered forests of the Western Reserve.

It is hardly necessary to name one of America's contributions to medical science, the introduction of surgical anesthesia by Long of Georgia and Morton of Massachusetts. The description of the contagiousness of puerperal fever by Oliver Wendell Holmes, the work on nervous diseases of S. Weir Mitchell, the development of local anesthesia by W. S. Halstead, all indicate that America has played an important part in the development of medical science.

NOTE.

This column is in receipt of a letter signed "Susan D. Pression," which is admittedly a pen name. I would be very happy to know the identity of the writer, and will keep this identity a dark secret between us.

She is inclined to believe that my remarks about hospital food were not without reason. She says:

"Awakening a patient at 6:30 to wash her up for the forthcoming breakfast, which will appear about 8 o'clock, an hour and a half later. The distance between 6:30 of the wash-up and the 8 o'clock breakfast finish is so timed that the horns of the outgoing night nurse and the on-rushing day nurse need not interlock. A basin, washrag, cake of soap and towel are deposited on the patient's unwilling stomach, while she, the patient, is admonished to 'wash up.' After she has sopped herself to the best of her limited ability, the nurse returns to grab the paraphernalia (mebby) and more likely she does not remove it until an hour or so later, when she brings in:

"A tray, glass of lukewarm water, saucer of lukewarm cereal, cold—or slightly warm—chop, or what have they, cold toast, burnt on the edges; coffee—bum.

"The above does, not perhaps, sound so badly if you read it quickly, but when I tell you that for the cereal there was served a pitcher of skim milk. With the coffee there was served a pitcher of skim milk, I fancy it will rouse your ire, and when I tell you that I stood up on my hind feet in the middle of the bed and screamed for cream, cream, you will not blame. (I was paying $9 per day for a room, $7 for day nurse, $7 for night nurse.) 'Why this thusness in the matter of skim milk for cereal and coffee? Is there no cream in this shack?"

"(A pause). 'Please see if you can't find a cow outside that gives cream as well as skim milk!"

"Nurse disappears, but returns to say that six (6) bottles of milk came up to her pantry, all with the cream taken off, before the bottles took embarkage for her pantry."

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

WHAT SHALL WE BRING.

"What will the New Year bring to us?"
Strange question we often hear!
But I thought we were wiser if we'd discuss
Just what we shall bring to the year.

For it's little a new year comes to bring
Save sunrise and sunset gold,
Autumn and winter and summer and spring,
The same as the years of old.

And time must become what men make of it,
As the paper, spotless and white,
Must to the good and the bad submit
Accordingly as men write.

Shall we bring courage and faith and cheer
And a willingness for the task?
This is the question the coming year
May pause at the gate to ask.

Morning and evening of summer and spring,
And twelve brief months to strive
Will come to us all, but what shall we bring
As our gifts to 'Thirty-five?

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Trench and Sir William Avon have exchanged information concerning the missing formula for a new metal, originally stolen from Molly O'Brien, daughter of the inventor, after her father's death. John Osborne was the thief; he was murdered and Nick was accused of the deed and acquitted. With Jerry Mordaunt, Molly and Nick are determined to find the formula. Sir William is willing to help.

I dropped onto the luxuriously cushioned seat.

Chapter 22.
SINISTER VOICE.

I sat back and regarded Sir William with interest. For a baronet and a highly respected leader of British industry, Sir William was certainly a curious mixture.

"Well, we know where we are now ,anyhow," I remarked. "Perhaps you're right in what you prophesy, but I take it that in the meantime you've no objection to our making a few investigations on our own account."

"You must please yourselves. If you are prepared to run the risk and if you think you have the smallest chance of success, go ahead by all means. Have you any definite idea as to where you propose to start?"

There was a faint suggestion of irony in his voice which gave me the impression that he attached very little importance to our projected efforts.

"The first thing I want to do," I said, "is to see the place where Osborne worked. I should like to have a chat with those people who looked after him. If he talked to them at all it's quite possible they might be able to give us some useful information."

He shook his head. "I am afraid there's nothing to be learned there. My secretary, who certainly isn't lacking in intelligence, has visited the farm and questioned them closely. I need hardly add that we have also searched the factory from top to bottom."

"I fully expected it," I said. "All the same, just for my own personal satisfaction, I should prefer to have a prowl around myself."

He smiled tolerantly. "There will be no difficulty about arranging that. I can give you a note to the farmer and his wife—Gowland their name is—and I will also send you the keys, which you can return to me when you have finished with them. We have to keep everything locked up because, as a matter of fact, there are still one or two cases of high explosives down in the cellars."

"What's the name of the place?" I inquired; "and how does one get to it?"

"It's called Hambridge Ferry. The easiest way is to go to Eastminster. Anyone will direct you from there."

I pulled out my pocket book and scribbled down Jerry's name and address. "This is where I'm staying at present," I said. "If you'll let me have the keys and the note some time tomorrow, I'll run down there straight away."

I handed him the slip of paper. "There's just one other point," I continued. "It would make things a lot simpler if I could pass on what you've told me to Jerry and Miss O'Brien. You see they both know about my visit . . ."

"And I take it that they are both waiting anxiously to hear the result." He blew out a ring of smoke and contemplated it reflectively. "Well, on the whole, now I come to think it over, I am not sure that it wouldn't be the wiser plan. You will impress upon them, of course, the necessity for absolute discretion."

"They'll keep their mouths shut all right,' 'I assured him.

A clock on the mantlepiece chimed out the hour, and with a surprised glance, Sir William consulted his watch.

"Three o'clock," he exclaimed, pushing back his chair. "I didn't realize it was as late as that." He rose to his feet. "I have to attend a meeting in the City at half-past so I am afraid I must be making a start. If you're coming in the same direction perhaps I can give you a lift?"

"I've arranged to meet my friends at the Milan,' 'I said. "If you could drop me there . . . "

"Why, of course. We pass the door."

Pressing the electric bell, he led the way through the sittingroom to the outer hall, where the manservant was waiting to present us with our hats. Preceding us along the corridor, the same polite functionary then rang for the elevator —an additional attention to which, I presume, a millionaire employer is automatically entitled.

I must confess that, as I stepped inside, I was in a distinctly elated mood. The knowledge I had acquired, if it did not enable me to prove my innocence to the world, at least provided a promising starting point from which to commence our researches.

I had a queer unreasoning conviction that somewhere or other down in those lonely Essex marshes lay a clue to the mystery of Osborne's death. Jerry, as I was well aware, knew that particular district inside out. Pottering about the East Coast in a small sailing boat was one of his favorite hobbies, and as far as that part of the work was concerned, there was no one alive who was better qualified to assist me in ferreting out the truth.

The elevator came to a halt, and escorted by a uniformed attendant, Sir William and I advanced in a stately procession towards the revolving glass door. Outside stood a magnificent limousine. A chauffeur with a rug over his arm was awaiting our arrival, and I was on the very point of taking my seat when I heard a remark which made every muscle in my body suddenly stiffen.

"How do you do, Sir William? It is quite a long time since I had the pleasure of meeting you."

I jerked my head around, scarcely able to believe my ears. Two paces away from me a tall, clean-shaven, middle-aged man, dressed in a smartly cut grey suit, was shaking hands with my companion.

Whether he had seen me or not I couldn't say. Gone was the beard, and gone were the gold-rimmed spectacles, but the voice beyond all question was the voice of Mr. Stellman.

It is amazing to me that I didn't make a fool of myself. I think I must have acted instinctively. Anyhow, before I realized what I was doing, I had brushed past the chauffeur, who with exemplary politeness was holding open the door, and dropped onto the luxuriously cushioned seat.

Frampton Favors $2 Head Tax And 1 Mill Levy To Provide $30 Month Old Age Pensions

A two dollar a head tax for all people in Lancaster county between 21 and 60 years plus a one mill levy would take care of all eligible for old age pensions in the county, W. C. Frampton, chairman of the county old age pension board sets out in a statement to The Star.

The two dollar tax would raise between $60.000 and $80.000 and the levy $180.000. Frampton says. He also advocates doing away with the present poll tax and points out that under provisions of a bill he has drafted a maximum of $30 a month to any one person is stipulated, the minimum amount to be set by the board according to the case affected.

Mr. Frampton's statement follows:

"The old age pension question has become a very prominent political question in the minds of a great many people and I have reached some conclusions.

"1. That no money can be raised for the old age pension fund without some form of taxation.

"2. I have in mind that it would be wise to tax everybody from 21 to 60 years of age $2 a year to pay into the old age pension fund which in Lancaster county would raise anywhere from 60 to 80 thousand dollars.

"3. Then let the county commissioners make a levy of 1 mill which would raise approximately $180,000 and that would be adequate to take care of the people who would be eligible to old age pension in Lancaster county

"4. That levy of 1 mill would not be an entirely new tax, for the reason it would take about 80 per cent of the people now in the poor house out and relieve that burden.

"5 The county of Lancaster paid around $200,000 for relief. I am satisfied that it would relieve one-half of that burden.

"6. In making the tax from 21 to 60, I would suggest that the poll tax, which is $2 for men from 21 to 50, be done away with, and that would relieve that burden, so in the final analysis the money raised by the proposition I have in mind would not greatly increase taxation burden.

"The people of the state of Nebraska cannot afford to be politically dishonest and they should either repeal the old age pension law or give sufficient funds to adequately care for those entitled to the same.

"In the bill I have drafted, I have thrown every safeguard that I know of around it, and after looking over the people in this county, who have made application for old age pensions, I am fairly well advised, and in no event would there be less than 500 or a greater number than 1,000 people in Lancaster county, who would be eligible to an old age pension.

"The bill as I have drafted it, provides for a maximum pension to any one person of $30 a month and a minimum pension paid to any one person would be in the discretion of the board, and also where persons received less than the maximum and were dissatisfied they could make an appeal to the county commissioners, and they could review the matter and see whether the action of the board was unjust. Some people would be adequately cared for on $10 per month, while another person would not be adequately cared for with less than $30 a month.

"I think the best we can figure is that the cost of caring for the aged people in Lancaster county would be in the neighborhood of $200,000.

"I know that there will be a large difference of opinion as to how the money can be raised. Some suggest the sales tax, some the wheel tax on automobiles, some suggest that it be put on the liquor tax. Some suggest it might be made out of the pari-mutuel betting. In the final analysis the legislature should pass some bill that would raise an adequate amount of money or repeal the bill for the reason it is a grievous disappointment to the aged and helpless, because when the old age pension law is there they expect the money is there and when they do not get it they cannot understand it, and they feel very bitter about it."

Americanism: Adding $2,000,000 a day to savings deposits since January 1; still wondering fearfully when recovery will begin.

Lower Industrial Prices Advocated

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—(AP)—Lower industrial prices, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace believes, would be an aid to nationwide recovery.

Speaking before the American Statistical association last night, Wallace said the extent of American economic advance in the coming year depends upon industry and its policies.

Possibly "the only way for many industries to make a profit in 1935 will be by lowering their prices in order to increase their sales, thus reducing their overhead costs per unit," he declared.

GOV. MURRAY WILL HELP SAVE FAMOUS 101 RANCH

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 29—(AP)—Promised the legal talents of Gov. William H. Murray, Col. Zack T. Miller today started his last big fight to save the 101 ranch from his creditors. Sid White, cowboy lawyer, announced Murray will join Miller in the fight to save the famous ranch near Ponca City as soon as he steps out as governor January 14. In the meantime White today prepared to file a motion in Federal court for a 10-day respite for Miller to permit his filing bankruptcy schedules under the Frazier-Lemke mortgage moratorium act.

PLAN JOBS FOR EMPLOYABLES ON FEDERAL RELIEF

Administration Would Leave Much of Task to Private Business.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration, some high officials forecast today, will ask congress for power to put all "employables" on the relief rolls to work. At present their number is estimated at 3,500,000 to 4,000,000.

It was believed, however, that an elastic program would be sought, with the government leaving to private business as much of this job-creating task as it can assume.

One project being weighed by the chief executive is to increase the membership of the civilian conservation corps from its present 350,000 to 1,000,000.

Among other plans placed before the president was one to put many idle to work eliminating grade crossings. Some officials thought this had virtually been decided upon, though the amount of the expenditure was not mentioned. The national resources board recently suggested a $500,000,000, long-term program of crossing work.

Would Return Millions to States.

Although the number of persons receving federal aid has been estimated at 19,000,000, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins is seeking to return some 4,000,000 "unemployables" to the care of the states. That leaves 15,000,000, of whom some 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 are estimated to be bread winners and the rest dependents.

There was no comment on the work relief program at President Roosevelt's press conference late yesterday. The chief executive did say, however, that a survey disclosed the federal emergency relief administration was caring for many aged and infirm persons who properly were the care of the states.

Though the administration's program contains an unemployment insurance proposal, the intentions on old age pensions have not been announced. There was no immediate reaction in administration circles to Senator Borah's contention that the return of the aged to state care will make swift enactment of old age pensions necessary.

Lowell Sherman Of Films Is Dead

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29—(AP)—Lowell Sherman, the actor-director who made one of the screendom's outstanding box office successes in "She Done Him Wrong," is dead.

Confined to a hospital since Thursday morning, Sherman died late yesterday afternoon of pneumonia.

A chronic sufferer from laryngitis, he was hardly able to speak above a whisper for the past six or eight months. Against his physicians orders he reported at his studio as usual last Thursday but became weaker during the day and consented to go to a hospital in the afternoon.

Sherman was born in San Francisco, October 11, 1885.

Stock Leaders Manage To Hold Their Own Or Add Moderately To Previous Gain

Closing Tone In Shares Is Steady

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The stock market toned down its pre-New Year's celebration today, although leading issues generally managed to hold their own or add moderately to their previous advance. Profit taking was a restraining factor. The close was steady. The turnover was the largest for a Saturday since November 30, transfers approximating 780,000 shares.

Optimism continued to permeate the financial sector, so far as equities were concerned, but many traders who were on the right side of yesterday's sharp upturn apparently could not resist the temptation to cash in their gains as a holiday precaution.

There were a few strong spots in evidence. Bethlehem Steel preferred got up 2 points, while the preferred issues of Crucible and Republic Steels were up major fractions to a point. Allied Chemical also pushed forward about 4, and Liggett & Myers B, Union Pacific, Schenley and International Harvester showed gains of around 1 to 2.

Shares about unchanged to fractionally improved included National Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Can, U. S. Steel common, Chrysler, General Motors, Westinghouse, General Electric, Case, Goodyear, American Smelting, U. S. Smelting, Santa Fe, New York Central, Douglas Aircraft, Pullman, Wilson & Co. A, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, International Telephone, North American and Standard Oils of New Jersey and California.

While it was not expected that Friday's forward spurt would continue without some interruption, most market commentators felt that the list had already given a most satisfying account of itself and that further progress might be looked for before any important difficulties were encountered.

The action of leading stocks in resisting realizing on a sizable scale was encouraging to those analysts who have been predicting that the market would climb out of its rut and stage a broad forward push at least around thebeginning of 1935.

Although business and industrial news still maintained a bright and cheery appearance, brokerage circles were disposed to halt and consider nearby possible political developments both at home and abroad. With the opening of congress next week, it was believed that major attention probably would be directed toward happenings at the capital which may motivate stocks one way or the other.

There was considerable cash selling for the income tax records in today's brief proceedings, but this phase of the activity was not thought to have had any particular effect on the market as a whole.

Commodities furnished no incentive for stocks. Wheat and corn were a trifle easier most of the time, but trading was dull. Cotton also slipped a bit after early firmness. Hogs, at Chicago, however, advanced to a new high on the current move. Bonds of the secondary classifications were again in demand. The gold currencies improved somewhat in terms of the dollar.

Corn Prices At Chicago Tumble

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 29—(AP)—Sharp breaks of corn quotations late today pulled all grains lower at the last.

Sudden enlargement of month-end liquidating sales on the part of holders of December corn contracts had a disturbing effect. Considerable of the selling was of a stop-loss character.

Corn closed weak, 1 to 2⅝ under yesterday's finish, May 89⅜@½, wheat ¼@⅜c down, May 99⅝@¾, oats ½@¾ off, and provisions 15 to 30 cents up. Lard touched a new high price record for the season.

A new upward trend showed itself in grain prices here early today. Buyers were encouraged because the Liverpool wheat market followed in major part yesterday's advances here, and also because of fresh gains in hog values. Opening unchanged to ⅜ cent higher, May $1.00⅜@1.00½, wheat afterward showeda rise all around. Corn started ¼ cent off to ¼ cent up, May 90⅝@¾c, and subsequently displayed firmness.

Cables said the Liverpool wheat market today was firm and advancing with a scarcity of sellers. It was added that both in Great Britain and in European continental countries there had been a better inquiry for actual wheat. Australian reports said harvesting operations were delayed, and probably would not be completed before the end of January. The Australian wheat yield this season was estimated as only totaling about 120,000,000 bushels, against 174,000,000 a year ago and 212,000,000 the year previous.

A bearish factor, however, was definite official announcement France would export 7,360,000 bushels of wheat after January 1 and before April 15. A further unsettling influence was that speculative buying of Chicago wheat futures diminished after early fractional upturns of prices. Setbacks that ensued carried all wheat deliveries down at times to somewhat under last night's close. Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat, advancing to some extent early, but afterwards tending to sag.

Provisions reflected hog price upturns.

About mid-session, wheat was ⅛ cent off to ⅛ cent up, compared with yesterday's finish, and corn was varying from ¼ cent decline to ⅜ cent advance.

Corn receipts in Chicago today were 13 cars, a week ago 23, and a year ago 46.

Grain Notes

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—(AP)—A strong basic condition of the market was believed by traders who look for a higher price trend, to have been the principal reason for an advance in prices which lifted wheat back to $1 a bushel yesterday. The volume of business was light and bullish news was scarce. Most of the activity apparently was carried on by professional operators. Weather conditions in the grain territory continued moderate and there was no indication that the recent cold seriously damaged the winter wheat crop.

A big drop in the volume of trading on the board of trade in the week ended Thursday compared with that of the preceding week was accounted for only in part by the Christmas holiday. Wheat transactions for the week totaled only 50,884,000 bushels compared with 92,554,000 bushels for the preceding week and 72,592,000 bushels for the same week in 1933.

For corn futures the trading volume totaled 40,763,000 bushels in the last week as against 60,986,000 bushels in the preceding week and 27,551,000 last year. Heavier speculation in corn as a result of the shortage this year has added to the trading volume in the grain compared with the volume a year ago.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Prices on the curb exchange were generally higher today in quiet trading. A number of specialties were bid up 1 to 2 points and a better tone developed in utilities, oils and metals, following the improvement in these groups late Friday.

With few exceptions, all of the active utilities were bought in fairly substantial volume, and while brokers reported there was still considerable short selling and realizing in these issues, advances were made by American Gas, Niagara Hudson, Electric Bond & Share and American Super Power. In other sections of the list a steady tone prevailed in alcohols and leading industrials with advances made by Swift Int., Penn Road, Hiram Walker, Distillers Corp.-Seagrams and American Cyanamid "B."

Parker Rust Proof and Aluminum Co. led the specialties in a brisk rally with gains of around 2½ points each. Others selling a point or so higher included Pratt & Lambert, Novadel Agene, Nachman Spring and Bower Roller Bearing. Sherwin Williams ran into some profit taking after extending the gains of the previous day and after selling as high as 88 yielded a substantial part of the advance.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The principal trading activity in the bond market again converged on the low priced rail group which added moderately to yesterday's gains. Utility loans, many of which were depressed in earlier sessions, also improved. U. S. governments and prime corporate ratings were firm.

Buyers paid fractions to a point above yesterday's final quotations for Baltimore & Ohio 4½s at 55⅞, St. Paul 5s at 23⅞, Great Britain 4½s at 75½, International Telephone 5s at 64¼, Missouri Pacific 5s, Series F, at 25½, New York Central 5s at 65⅞, Nickel Plate 4½s at 61, North American 5s at 80, Frisco 4½s at 12⅞, and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s at 93¼.

Duplicating the rise of Friday, Postal Telegraph 5s pushed up 2 points to 45, while Columbia Gas & Electric 5s and Consolidated Gas of New York 5½s rallied about half a point to 82 and 104⅞.

Changes were narrow in the U. S. governments list, but most of them were upward. Treasury 3⅛s of 1944-46, 3⅜s of 1940-43 and 3⅜s of 1046-56 were 3-32nds of a point higher. Home Owners Loan Corp. 2⅝s and 3s edged up 2-32nds.

There was no marked change in values in the foreign division. French 7s and German 5½s mad gains of around ¾ of apoint. Australian 5s, Italian 7s and some of the Brazilian loans were off fractions.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 29—(AP)—Butter and eggs were firm in tone today. Poultry was steady.

Butter futures responded to the bulge in the cash market yesterday. Withdrawals from storage totaled 194,000 pounds—less than last year but the movement was considered normal with supplies sharply less than last year.

The gain in the cash market sent extras to the highest price since November 19, 1931, and standards to the highest point since October 23, 1931.

Roy E. Eldredge of Thomson & McKinnon said: "There is increased danger that the high cash prices for butter will restrict consumption but it takes some time for such effect to be felt in this market."

JAPAN SCRAPS NAVAL TREATY

mental to our national prestige," the statement said, "is bound to remain a source of permanent and profound discontent to our people."

"It is our firm belief," the statement concluded, "that when the other powers, appreciating the essential fairness of Japan's claims, consent to make a sweeping reduction in fighting strength along the lines proposed by our government, then a full measure of security will be afforded to the powers through the elimination of any possible menace from one another, and an enduring peace established upon a solid basis."

Under the Washington treaty's provisions, the earliest date on which the pact can be scrapped is the one chosen by Japan today, December 31, 1936.

Japan's formal denunciation followed unsuccessful talks in London designed to smooth the way for the 1935 naval conference.

Another naval treaty, the London pact, automatically ends on December 31, 1936. Thus there will be no international agreement limiting navies after that date unless a new one is signed.

Japan's action today was taken after it had built up to within one small ship of the total tonnage permitted it by the Washington treaty.

Both the Japanese envoy and Chairman Vinson, democrat, Georgia, of the house naval committee expressed hope a new treaty could be negotiated within the next two years.

Hull received the ambassador alone for the brief and routine ceremony. They remained closeted for 15 minutes.

Tokyo Explains Action.

TOKYO, Dec. 29—(AP)—The foreign office in a statement made public today in connection with Japan's denunciation of the Washington naval treaty of 1922 said the action was motivated by a desire to promote peace and disarmament.

Japan has not, the statement said, "the slightest wish to enlarge her armaments."

The hope was expressed that another pact might be concluded superseding the Washington treaty, but the statement made clear that any new agreement must conform with Japan's "basic principles."

The common upper limit for all naval powers, the statement said, "should be fixed as low as possible."

Furthermore, it said, "in order to render it difficult for any power to attack another, but easy to defend itself, offensive arms should be totally abolished or drastically reduced and defensive arms adequately provided for."

Earnings

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Beatrice Creamery Co. and subsidiaries report for the nine months ended November 30, net profit of $946,989, after charges, etc., equal to $1.02 a share, against $255,609 or $2.27 on the 7 per cent preferred for the same period last year.

B. Kuppenheimer & Co., Inc., reports for the year ended November 3, a net loss of $25,735 after charges against a net loss of $222,121 in the previous year.

Earnings of the Duplan Silk Corp. for the six months ended November 30, show a net profit of $331,920, after charges, equal, after allowing for dividend requirements on the 8 per cent preferred, to 97 cents a share. In the corresponding period of last year earnings were $475,000,834 or $1.49 a share.

Natomas Co. reports for 11 months ended November 30, a net profit of $855,??? after charges equal to 86 cents a share.

FLEET TO HOLD GIGANTIC MANEUVERS NEXT SUMMER

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Dec. 29 — (AP)—Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander of the United States fleet, today disclosed the force will engage in maneuvers of unparalleled scope throughout the east Pacific early next summer.

The fleet, reported to be the largest and most powerful armada ever assembled under a single command in the world's naval history, will consist of 177 surface ships, 477 airplanes and the dirigible Macon. They will carry 55,000 officers and men.

WILL DISSOLVE EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The board of governor of the New York tobacco exchange today voted to discontinue trading at once and dissolve the exchange as soon as the necessary papers can be prepared. It was understood in well informed quarters that the decision to close the exchange, which had been in operation since September 19, was due to the lack of sufficient business to continue operations profitably.

OUSTER OF ARMY AIR CHIEF ASKED

Grand Jury Probe Of Lobbying and Corruption in Prospect.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP) — A grand jury inquiry was in prospect today as a result of the house military affairs committee's charges of "deplorable" lobbying in the war department and corruption of government officials.

The military committee, reporting yesterday to the house, after a nine-months investigation, also renewed its attack on Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois as chief of the army air corps. He was not involved in the lobbying or corruption charges, but the committee recommending that he be removed on the grounds that he "violated existing law," testified "falsely," and said the army could fly the mail last winter when he "should have known differently."

The war department inspector general's office, at the direction of Secretary Dern, already has instituted a study of the Foulois charges and its report is expected soon. The committee report said "such action is the usual step preliminary to placing such a matter before a military tribunal."

Congressional investigators, commenting on the other phase of their report, said they expected at least two indictments for accepting favors from and giving favors to concerns represented by lobbyists.

Testimony had been placed before the committee purporting to show that army officers aided lobbyists for certain concerns, and that specifications had been altered for the benefit of the companies.

The committee report told of "loans or gifts . . . to at least two war department officials in high positions." But it centered its criticism upon men outside the department.

UNEMPLOYABLES WILL COST TWO MILLION YEARLY

county's December case load 40 per cent and took 30 per cent of the total in determining the number of cases which would probably be classed as unemployables."

"We figure that such cases would cost us about $15 per month, fortunately there are only two or three people in unemployables' families. By multiplying the case load by $15 we arrived at the figure of $157,000." Woods also said that the estimate was not definitely accurate but was a "very good indicator." Woods stated that the move would create a hardship on 45 counties whose funds were about depleted.

"Will Rogers" Answer.

The state FERA headquarters Saturday had received no official word from Washington and Haynes was reticent to make any definite statement on what the next step would be. "All I know is what I gather from newspaper reports," Haynes said.

However H. D. Elmore, head of the relief division, said there were 8,000 unemployable people on relief rolls now but borderline cases and those who could not be shifted from one class of employment to another would run the figure up to 17,000. At present, a person is classed as an unemployable only on presentation of a doctor's certificate, Elmore said.

The last report of J. R. Carnahan, head of the FERA work division, showed 21,736 men and 1,699 women on work relief rolls. The addition of 5,000 being given work by the counties made a total of 28,435 persons on work relief in the state. Carnahan said the number probably had not changed materially since the report was completed the first of the month.

TAX REDUCTIONS.

Morrill county has reported a substantial cut of more than $52,000 in the total tax bill of $390,524 which its citizens will have to pay under levies made for 1934. Aside from a $4,000 cut in state taxes there is not much change in the regular levies. Special irrigation taxes are $49,000 above those of the preceding annum. There is also a new item of $1,527 for old age pension.

In Lincoln county a $10,000 reduction is accounted for mainly by lower state taxes. County, school and drainage taxes were reduced, but municipal and irrigation revenues are up, while $4,592 for old age pensions is extra this year, making the grand total $818,211.

CURTIS WILL BE DENIED PART IN JERSEY DRAMA

Hauptmann Prosecution Cool to Shipbuilder's Offer to Testify.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Dec. 29—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are destined to relive, as witnesses in Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial, the ordeal of their first son's kidnaping and death, but John Hughes Curtis of Norfolk, Va., probably will be denied a part in the drama.

Curtis, the shipbuilder who once was convicted of obstructing justice for posing as a Lindbergh "intermediary," offered to testify against Hauptmann. Prosecutors, apparently intent on other aspects of their case against the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying suspect, were cool to his suggestion.

Though Curtis said he would swear that he has talked to Hauptmann and that the suspect showed him some of the Lindbergh ransom money, Attorney General David T. Wilentz merely vouchsafed that the matter was "under advisement." From an official source came a definite prediction that Curtis' offer would be "flatly rejected."

Colonel Lindbergh, for the first time in more than two years, went sorrowfully back yesterday to the Hopewell mansion where Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., was stolen.

With four prosecuting officials at his heels, he paced through the empty rooms, telling calmly of the things he said and did on the wintry night of March 1, 1932, when the baby was taken from his crib to death.

Patiently answering questions, in order to provide the prosecutors with a clear picture of the crime, he led them to the room where the baby lay, to the window where the kidnaper left a ransom note and finally to the living room where the father sat reading, unaware of the ugly crime.

The aviator told how Betty Gow, the child's Scotch nursemaid, cried out the news of the tragedy and how, carrying a rifle, he rushed outdoors and peered vainly into the blackness of a Sourland mountain night.

The roles which the aviator and his wife will play in Hauptmann's trial appear to be definitely fixed by the developments. Official sources again made it clear that members of the household, including Miss Gow, will be questioned only to establish the time, place and circumstances of the crime.

It was thus disclosed that Mrs. Lindbergh will be a witness. One official said she would "testify willingly" and asserted it was "only natural, her child having been kidnaped," that she would want to tell what she knows of the case.

WOULD EXEMPT SMALL HOMES

Rep. Bentzen Is Also For Aid Extension On School Leases.

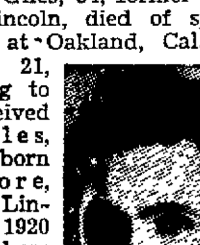

Rep. Otto Bentzen, republican, Naper, a newcomer to the state legislature, Saturday announced he intends to introduce a measure exempting homesteads up to $4,000 from taxation. Bentzen said his bill will be modeled after the Florida homestead exemption law.

The Boyd county representative, a farmer, said he also will seek an extension of relief afforded by the last legislature to those in arrears on their rental to the state for school lands. Two years ago, the legislature authorized acceptance of notes covering delinquent rent. The notes fall due December 31, and Bentzen favors extending them for two years.

He said considerable school lands are operated in his territory, and due to drouth and other adverse conditions, many farmers leasing school lands are as unable to pay these delinquent items now as they were two years ago.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—BY JOHN HIX

Strange as it seems, the so-called flying lemur is not a lemur and it cannot fly. But as a glider it is almost without equal in the animal world. The animal has long folds of skin which stretch between its fore and hind legs, giving it a large "wing-surface" which it uses in making long jumps. When jumping from a high tree the flying lemur can glide 200 feet or more before landing.

True lemurs are of the same family as monkeys. The flying lemur, which is not of that family, is not closely related to any living mammal. Two species are known, both of which grow to be about the size of ordinary house cats.

Charles Wesley, co-founder with his brother John of the Methodist church, was the song-writer of the new Methodist movement which swept England in the middle of the eighteenth century. Like his brother, Charles traveled through England on horseback preaching open air sermons when the doors of established churches were closed against the new sect. But more important in some respects was his work as a hymn writer. In all he wrote about 6,000, many of which, of course, are no longer heard, but at least 400 are still sung in Protestant churches throughout the world. His greatest religious song, known today to everyone, is "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Liquor Revenue Enriches States

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—Millions of dollars of much needed additional revenue gladdened the hearts of state treasurers today as they added up the results of their first year in the liquor business.

Repeal's first year brought the federal government approximately $400,000,000, even though it collected no levies on state liquor control systems. The government had estimated that its first year revenue, including tariff, would be about $525,000,000.

Iowa's profit amounted to about $500,000 for the half-year, and a three-way hold on liquor sales in Missouri brought that state $3,500,000.

States operating under their own liquor sale systems were faced with the possibility of the federal government taxing a share of their profits.

A federal judge in Pennsylvania yesterday ruled that the state is liable for federal liquor taxes, including a floor tax of $1,000,000. He held the state had divested itself of its sovereign character by opening a chain of liquor stores. Pennsylvania had an income of $11,000,000.

New York headed the list of states getting their liquor revenue solely from taxation with an income of $23,000,000. New Yorkers drank 5,681,376 gallons which was taxed at $1 per gallon and there was an additional $18,000,000 license revenue.

Honor Is Paid To Nebraska Soldier Long After Death

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—The war department announced today the posthumous award of the silver star to the late Soren C. Sorensen of Grand Island, Neb., for gallantry in action during the attack on Bercy-Le-Sec, France, July 19-21, 1918.

"Lieutenant Sorensen displayed," according to the citation, "exceptional coolness and bravery in the organization and preparation for the attack and, though wounded early in the operation, remained at his post until the progress of the attack and his own inability to advance with his men necessitated his removal to the rear."

Sorensen died on July 1, 1919, in an evacuation hospital as the result of injuries received in a motorcycle accident. The silver star will be presented to his widow, Mrs. Laura Sorensen.

MRS. MARY HANTZ DIES.

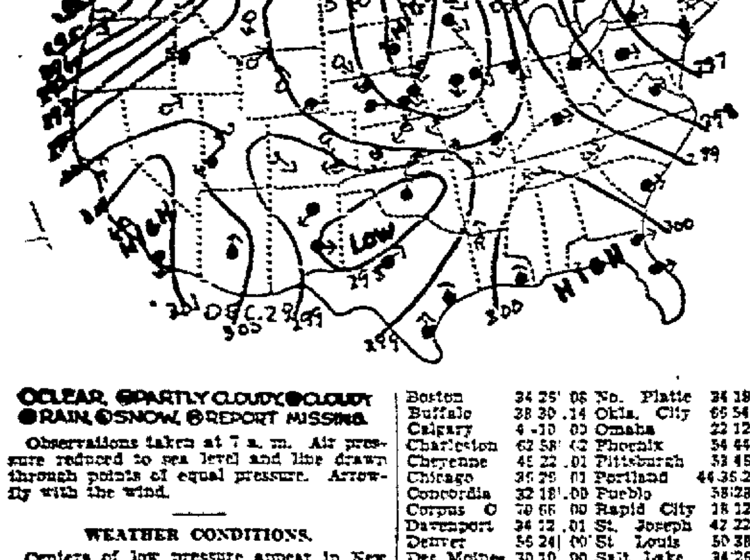

Mrs. Mary L. Hantz, 76, who had made her home in Lincoln for the past two years, died at 11:45 o'clock Saturday morning at the home of a son, Elmer Heintzelman, 829 North Seventeenth street. She was a member of the York Christian church and o fthe Rebekah lodge of that city. The body is at Umberger's mortuary.

Norfolk Electrical Company Again Open

Employes To Whom Operator Was Told By NRA to Pay $1,300 Back Wages, Not On Hand.

NORFOLK, Neb., Dec. 29—(AP)—Ora Scheer, owner of the Norfolk Battery and Electric company here, who suspended business Friday following a demand by NRA officials for $1,300 in back pay for employes, this morning was at his establishment doing what business he could himself.

The six employes, two salesmen and four workmen, whom he dismissed following the NRA demand, were not put back to work.

Late yesterday afternoon H. B. J. Meyer, Omaha, chief field adjuster for the NRA in Nebraska, went to Scheer's establishment and conferred with the owner. Following the conference Meyer announced Scheer would open his place for business this morning.

Meyer pointed out that Scheer closed his business solely on his own initiative and at no time was it closed under any circumstances involving word from NRA officials.

Veteran Minnesota Quintet to Meet Nebraska

Husker Tossers Hope For Basket Win Over Strong Gopher Quint

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

The University of Nebraska basketball team will return to its court duties tonight to meet the fast University of Minnesota five in what should be one of the best games of the Huskers' 1934-35 campaign. The Cornhuskers and Gophers will clash at the coliseum and the opening tip is booked for 8 o'clock.

Scarlet Hopes For Win.

The Scarlet is hopeful for a victory, a win being particularly sweet for several reasons. First, the Huskers are anxious to avenge the 37-16 lambasting the Gophers passed out to the Brownemen at Minneapolis last year. Second, a victory tonight would give Nebraska an even break for the first four games of the pre-season schedule. Lastly, a win over Minnesota in any sport always is very pleasing to Husker followers.

Coach Dave MacMillan of Minnesota is bringing a veteran aggregation to Lincoln, five of the squad members having seen duty against Nebraska at Minneapolis last year. The team which Coach W. H. Browne will send against the Gophers is equally loaded with veteran material, there being only one sophomore in the lineup scheduled to see action at the opening of the game. Probable lineups:

Nebraska	Pos.	—Minnesota
McDonald	F	Kupperberg
Whitake	F	Roscoe
Sorensen	C	Norman
Parsons	G	Selzer
Widman	G	Svensen

Officials—E. C. Quigley, St. Mary's and Ernie Adams, Omaha.

Gophers Expecting Win.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 29—Looking for victory on hostile floors, 12 University of Minnesota basket shooters left for Nebraska last night on the first of two trips closing the preliminary season with high hopes of keeping the record clear.

The Gopher quint, lately concerned principally with final examinations, apparently had leaped every scholastic barrier and will seek to celebrate at Nebraska's expense Saturday night and Superior, Wis., Normal's Monday night.

Coach Dave MacMillan, watching a three-man battle for one forward position as the Big Ten campaign nears with Minnesota's lineup undecided, is going to make up his mind on that point, among others, during the two engagements.

Involved in the forward scrap are Charlie Wallblom and Jim Baker, veterans, and Mickey Kupperberg, New York rookie, with George Roscoe hardly challenged for the other forward post. The remaining three places are largely in the hands of Gordon Norman, center, and George Svendsen and Eddie Stelzer, guards.

Also named for the trip to Lincoln, Neb., were Glen Barnum, Mal Eiken, Earl Svendsen and Ray Antil, with a twelfth to be selected.

MARQUETTE IS WINNER.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 29—(INS)—The Stanford basketball team fell before Marquette university's quintet here last night, 39 to 26.

Away to a comfortable early lead, Marquette was pressed late in the first period by the Indians. At half-time Marquette held an 18 to 13 lead. Capt. Ray Morstadt of Marquette was high scorer with 23 points. Score:

Stanford.	B	FT	F	Marquette.	B	FT	F
Bost, f	1	0	1	Morstadt, f	9	5	0

Referee—John Schommer (Chicago). Umpire—George Lewis (Wisconsin).

BLADEN CLUB FIVE IN WINNING STREAK

BLADEN, Neb., Dec. 29—The Bladen A. C. cagers ran their victory string to four in a row this week, winning three games. Bladen beat Kendig Grocery, 32-19; Campbell, 33-23, and Grand Island Bachman Oilers, 29-15.

SPORT SLANTS

by Pap

THOSE German promoters who lured Steve Hamas to Berlin to meet Max Schmeling have stolen the only fair heavyweight bout Madison Square Garden had in sight for its winter bout in Miami.

So the proposed visit of Jack Petersen, English heavyweight champion, may prove a life saver—if it materializes. A match with Bob Olin, light heavyweight title holder, would have an international, championship flavor.

Having knocked out Larry Gains, Jack Doyle, Len Harvey, Jack Pettifer, George Cook and Don McCorkindale on his way to the English heavyweight throne, Petersen is looking toward our shores. Petersen is considered the cleverest big man developed in England since Bombardier Wells. A better puncher than Wells, he has shown, too, that he can stand a punch better than the famed Bombardier.

For all his cleverness and punch though, it is very doubtful if Petersen could be expected to cope with the heavyweights in the proposed elimination tournament, for he would have to concede considerable weight to most of our big boxers.

A LITTLE fellow in comparison with our present crop of heavies, he is hardly more than a light heavyweight, tipping the scales at less than 180 pounds.

However, he is tall and may add a few pounds to his frame before he stops growing. The one thing against his chances for great improvement is his poor eyesight.

Petersen has stopped a few big boys, George Cook and Don McCorkindale for instance, but on the whole most of his victims have been little more than overgrown middleweights and light-heavies. McCorkindale showed himself to be a fair boxer when he fought here last winter.

The present idol of the English boxing fans is anxious to come to America to earn a shot at the heavyweight crown now worn by Max Baer but the folks in England would like to see him in action against a couple of our first light heavyweights before venturing a try at our heavies.

Petersen would find plenty of opportunity here for the stage is set for the entrance of some young heavyweight who packs a punch and can fight.

JIMMY JOHNSTON (matchmaker for the Madison Square Garden) seems to have some sort of soft spot in his heart for English heavyweights. You may recall he imported one Phil Scott from England and did right well for Mr. Scott and Mr. Johnston—even though the cash customers were not thrilled by his efforts to entertain them.

Scott's exhibition with Jack Sharkey in Miami set a new low in heavyweight boxing entertainment.

Hi School Scores

BETTING SHEET FAVORS CRIMSON

Alabama Money Boosts Odds With Stanford On Short End.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 29—(INS)—The last cripple on the Stanford squad has returned to condition, and the Indians today were winding up their preparations for the New Year's day clash in the Rose Bowl with the Crimson Tide of Alabama. Claude Callaway, 204-pound right tackle for Tiny Thornhill's crew took his regular place in the lineup in yesterday's scrimmage. He appeared in the best of condition.

Meanwhile the Stanford boys apparently were unworried over the fact an inrush of Alabama money today had made them the underdogs in the wagering on the coming classic.

Odds quoted in Los Angeles were 10 to 9 with the Indians on the short end for the first time in any game this season.

Stanford Displays Fire.

Stanford displayed more pep and dash in its Friday workouts than it has shown in some weeks. Bobby Grayson, all-American fullback, seemed fully recovered from the effects of his broken ribs, and the ailing knees of Monk Moscrip, all-American end and Keith Topping, another flankman appeared to have healed completely.

While Stanford was hustling around in great shape on the practice field, Coach Thomas didn't allow the fact that his team is a favorite in the betting to effect his workouts.

Teams Work In Mud.

A muddy field and a bit of rain caused Thomas to drive the boys from Alabama even harder than usual. Not once this season has Alabama handled a wet ball and Thomas wanted the players prepared for the eventuality of rain.

Thomas appeared satisfied with the way the boys worked with the wet pigskin, and declared he had planned only a 'few changes here and there" in his regular style of play in preparation for the Rose Bowl.

FRISCO SQUADS DRILL DEFENSE

East-West Teams Start Tapering Off Work For Big Game.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29—(INS)—Visiting football stars here for the annual Shrine East-West game New Year's day tapered off their practice today and prepared for a light defensive workout tomorrow and a long rest Monday.

At Berkeley, where the east is holding forth, Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr revealed they are expecting great things of Bill Shepherd, 185 pounds of gridiron dynamite from western Maryland.

The coaches said they had decided that Shepherd, the nation's high scorer during 1934, will play safety with Pug Lund, the Minnesota All-American, will back up the line at times with Munjas, the Pittsburgh star, will block and kick and pass and carry the ball.

East Favored, 10-8.

At Stanford, where the West is bivouacked, the co-coaches, Percy Locey and Babe Hollingbery, frankly admitted that they pin a great share of their hopes on the tricky running of Cotton Warburton, the former U. S. C. ball carrier.

The odds in the betting, what little betting there was, favored the East at 10 to 8.

BLUE HILL HAS FANCY RECORD.

BLUE HILL—Coach Elton E. Reinmiller's Blue Hill basketball squad boasts the fancy mark of not having been defeated in a scheduled game over a two-season period—27 wins straight.

The Blue Hill team this year includes veteran performers in Martin, Bock and Nowack. The locals have defeated Cowles, 30-16, and Minden, 17-14, this year.

Bonthron In Training

All Rights Reserved by The Associated Press

PAUL PILGRIM, manager of athletics at the New York Athletic club, was not at all surprised when Bill Bonthron appeared at the Winged Foot club and resumed working out on the track, despite the former Princeton miler's announcement that he would retire from foot-racing when his college days were over.

Pilgrim, a great middle distance runner in his day and winner of the 440 and 880 in the 1906 Olympics, knew better than to take the retirement talk too seriously and fully expected Bonthron to run again after a little rest.

"I know how he felt after that long, hard running campaign," commented Pilgrim. "You get so tired of the training grind you never want to see a spiked shoe again, but after a long rest you are keen to get going again."

Bonthron was tired of running—and well he might have been In the final month of his campaign he won the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. 800 and 1500 meters, the National Collegiate mile and the National A. A. U. 1500 meter championship in a schedule which carried him to the West Coast and back again.

Doesn't Like To Run.

All through his varsity career, Bonthron insisted that he never really liked to run and did so only because some sort of athletic activity was expected of him.

He claims his feeling toward foot-racing is still unchanged, that he is resuming his training only because he deems it unwise to drop all athletic activity suddenly after years of high school, prep school and college racing. His plan is to taper off gradually over a period of three years until he can safely hang up his spiked shoes.

Bonthron's method of training for foot-racing may be considered unorthodox, yet it is perfectly suited to his needs, judged in the light of his accomplishments. He spends at least as much time at the weight pulling machines in the gymnasium as he does on the running track.

With his exceptionally long stride it is natural that he should need unusual strength to carry him along at a record-breaking clip. Hence his rigid program of body building.

Lacking form in his running, depending almost entirely on a finishing kick to bring him home in front, Bonthron has substituted unusual strength and power. All attempts to alter his running style were fruitless and he had to return to his natural method.

Back For Olympics?

He plans to begin his indoor competitive campaign by running distance races and training down to the shorter and faster races as the season wears on.

If Bonthron and Cunningham are brought together again to resume the rivalry which started last winter and continued through the outdoor season, track followers can look forward to another colorful indoor season.

Bonthron's three year plan will carry him over the Olympic Games in Berlin. In spite of his announced feelings about running it is doubtful if he can resist the lure competition in the international classic will offer. Look for him on the 1936 Olympic team!

COLLINS LEADS LEAGUE HITTERS

St. Louis Batter Boasts .615 Percentage In Slugging Race.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(INS)—The penchant of Jim Collins of the St. Louis Cardinals and Mel Ott of the New York Giants for hitting for extra bases placed the two sluggers at the top of the heap in miscellaneous National league records for 1934 released today.

Collins led the slugging percentages with a mark of .615 and hit for the most total bases, 369. Ott was right behind him with a percentage of .591 and 344 total bases, and also batted in the most runs, 135.

In the team averages, the champion Cardinals batted in the most runs, 748, or 32 more than the Giants.

Vaughan Busy Stroller.

Floyd Vaughan, Pittsburgh, dre w the most bases on balls, 94. Dick Bartell, Philly shortstop who will be with the Giants next year, was hit most often by pitcher, nine times, probably due to the various feuds in which he was involved. Frankie Frisch of the Cards struck out the fewest times, 10.

Unenviable distinctions went to Dolph Camilli, Chicago-Philadelphia who struck out the most times, 94, and to Ernie Lombardi, slow-footed catcher of the Reds, who for the second consecutive year hit into the most double plays, 24.

BOWLING

GREATER LINCOLN LEAGUE.

The maple pegs were given a right smart mauling Friday night at the Lincoln Parlors when four of the six Greater Lincoln league teams were well over the 2,800 mark. Liberty Life turned in the best team series with 3,047, and the best single game with 1,107. Goetz Brown's Colts and Eggers & O'Flyng were over the 2800 line. Individually, Finley's 672 was the best of a good lot of scores and his 278 was one of the best single game scores of the year. Liberty Life and Eggers & O'Flyng each won the odd game from Goetz and Falstaff, while Brown's Colts won all three with Gridiron Club

Tonsilitis Threat Bothers "Pug" Lund

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 29—(INS)—Francis ("Pug") Lund, member of the all-star East team which meets an all-star West eleven in the annual Shrine charity football game in San Francisco on New Year's day, was under observation today in a local hospital for tonsilitis.

The great backfield star is the second eastern player placed on the sick list.

Duane Purvis, injured Purdue backfield ace, is definitely out of the New Year's day classic with a severely injured knee.

COAST JOCKEYS IN BATTLE FOR HONORS

With only three more days to go, Maurice Peters, apprentice rider from South Dakota, and Silvio Coucci, clever pilot from New York's bronx, are waging a close race for the turf's 1934 jockey championship.

Peters' lead has dwindled to two. The mid-western jockey rode one winner at Santa Anita park yesterday boosting his total winners for the year to 217. Coucci, also riding at Santa Anita, brought home a pair of winners for a total of 215.

Both ride again at Santa Anita today and also have signed to ride at Sunday's meeting at Auga Caliente.

CUMMINGS WINNER AUTO RACE CROWN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP)—Bill Cummings, winner of the 500-mile international sweepstakes at Indianapolis last Decoration day, was named today as automobile racing champion of the United States.

Mauri Rose, of Indianapolis, came second, and Russell Snowberger, of Detroit, third, on the official 1934 standings released at national headquarters here of the contest board of the American Automobile association.

KINGFISH'S JAW TARGET FOR MAX

Baer Puts Levinsky To Sleep In The Second Round at Chicago.

BY GEORGE C. GALLATI.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—(INS)—King Levinsky's title aspirations looked flatter than a punctured balloon today all because of a contemptuous epithet that unloosed a maelstrom of dynamite from the fists of Max Baer, heavyweight champion of the world.

What started out as a four round exhibition bout last night in the Chicago stadium arena suddenly became a tragedy for the Kingfish early in the second round. A two fisted barrage from the leering champion, ending with a crushing right to the jaw, knocked out the pride of Maxwell street 53 seconds after the stanza began.

It was the first knockout Levinsky had suffered in his long and colorful career in the heavyweight money, and he lay stiffer than the mackerel he used to peddle along Maxwell street while Referee Tommy Thomas tolled ten.

Maxie Cuts Loose.

Ten minutes after the grinning Maxie had done a few stunts for the cameras and the 14,000 customers, the "poisonality kid" was still wobbly and dazed, so dazed, in fact, he had no statement to make.

The Kingfish was overzealous. At the start of the second round he beckoned to the clowning Max to "come on and fight — —." Then he added the nasty epithet. It was too much for the world's champion, already irked by King's antics. He obliged the pride of the Ghetto and closed in, his face contorted in a Satanical leer.

Savage lefts and rights to the body rocked Levinsky against the ropes and whirled him back again toward ring center. The debonair champion slammed the Kingfish with four whistling rights in rapid succession and Levinsky went flat on his back to stay there until his seconds helped him to his corner.

Just One Wise Crack.

The sinister six ounce "fighting" gloves that the champion had demanded of the Illinois boxing commission in answer to Levinsky's braggings had done their work well. Baer's only wise crack of the evening, uttered as he left the ring, was:

"Fancy that fellow laughing at me!"

The uncouth Levinsky started off the evening on the wrong foot with some preliminary antics meant to register contempt. With a clowning gesture he reached for Max's hand in the champion's corner before the bout. Baer slapped his arm away.

And the bout got under way with Levinsky using a left jab that gave him a good edge in the first round. He gave Baer a fair thumping that reddened the champion's grinning face. But as the opening round neared its close Baer cut loose with a solid left to the Kingfish's middle that jolted the fishmonger no little.

Buddy Baer, the champion's 236 pound brother, added to his string of one round knockouts by pushing over an aged gentleman named Gene Santon, Cleveland.

TULANE GUARDS SUFFER INJURY

Wave Must Call Upon Replacements For Temple Game.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29—(AP)—Tulane's chances in the first annual Sugar Bowl game looked exceedingly glum today with word that the two regular guards, Bob Simon and George Tessier, have scarcely a chance to break into the lineup against Temple New Year's day.

X-ray pictures showed that Simon received a fractured vertebra when he was injured in Thursday's workout. Tessier, who has been nursed along with a leg injury for half the regular season, was also a doubtful starter.

Reserves Have Strength.

Ted Cox has a quartet of bulky guards in Bernard Evans, Charlie Smither, Ed Poitevant and Marion Monk, for Tulane is far from lacking replacements. But the happy idea that the Wave would face Temple with its lineup at its full strength for the first time this season, with "Little Monk" Simons in rare shape once more, has been shattered.

Warner and his Temple squad arrived last night.

Both squads will probably wind up their preliminary practices for the game today with each planning a light workout.

The eight owners of the Pacific Coast league will approve the umpires hired by President Hi Baggerly in the future.

Bill Meyer will manage the Binghamton club in the NYP league again in 1935, his fourth year.

College Football At Crossroads Declares Director at Harvard

BY ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—American college football coaches turned today toward the new year, worried not alone by the task of rebuilding their teams for another season, but with added concern in their ranks over solemn warnings to protect the game by stamping out semi-professionalism, discontinuing unethical practices and helping to curb drinking or gambling among the spectators.

No Time for Compromise.

The large order of advice, suggestion and fresh responsibility for the gridiron coaching profession, delivered in the course of the annual meeting of the American Football Coaches association, was completed last night by William J. Bingham's ringing declaration that "college football is at the cross roads" where there can be no compromise between amateurism and professionalism.

Harvard's energetic athletic director, somewhat "on the spot" himself at a time when the crimson is seeking a new head coach to achieve more satisfactory results, challenged the coaches to chart a clear course, "if we are to get rid of the confusion in college football."

"There must be a clearer agreement among colleges on the type of athletic policy educational institutions should have," said Bingham. "If winning football is necessary for prestige. Then the matter of first importance is to procure football players. They can be had for a price. An authority is quoted in the press that a top-notcher is worth as much as $1,000.

Business of Hiring Coach.

"An institution may hire a coach to go out and get football players and he is worthy of his hire only to the extent he can procure good athletes to make up his team. Such a coach must have athletic scholarships. . . . very often scholarships do not suffice, and when competition is keen there must be, in addition, free board and room, and sometimes incidental expenses, or, to put it bluntly, salary.

"But where is all this going to lead us? We are approaching in college football the same condition that not only killed college baseball but ruined community amateur baseball as well—semi-professionalism. Too many boys are being urged to go to college to play football. Unless college administrations make this game of college football incidental to a college degree we might just as well face the fact we are doomed. You cannot blame the schoolboy star; you cannot blame the coach; but you can blame the institution which makes recruiting a condition of your employment.

Recruiting Main Evil.

"What will be the effect of recruiting? Boys who are enrolled primarily to get an education will not be candidates for your team. The benefits of the game will be lost to them because your hired gang must be given first chance, not only to prove your judgment of selection of recruited athletes, but to satisfy the people who are putting up the money for athletic scholarships. There will be increased conniving, bidding and recriminatoins and this vocation of college coaching, where we want to have idealism, will become the laughing stock of the athletic world.

"The game itself will cease to be a college game. It will be taken over by the professionals, and if conditions I have outlined then are to continue, that is where it belongs. We have the utmost respect for a professional athlete. He earns his living through honest effort. But we have no respect for an athlete or the institution poisoning college amaterism by infesting it with illegitimate semi-professionalism."

The coaches also listened to a warning from the chairman of their public relations committee, Charles (Gus) Dorais of Detroit that the welfare of the game depends upon their help in curbing "excessive drinking in the stands" as well as the "menace of ever-increasing betting." As a specific measure, Dorais suggested coaches who write for newspapers discontinue the practice of picking winners.

Rules Are Approved.

The one topic on which the coaches generally agreed was that no drastic changes should be made in the rules nor any attempt made now to be stampeded by what the professional clubs are doing with the gridiron regulations. Except that they would like to have some minor clarifications made, 20 per cent of the coaches are on record as desiring a "status quo" in the rules situation. The annual report of Walter Okeson, chairman of the national collegiate football rules committee, indicated this view is shared by the rules-makers.

COLLEGE GROUP ANNOUNCES CODE

Nine-Point Program By N.C.A.A. Aimed at Athletic Evils.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—(AP)—The National Collegiate A. A. has taken a definite step forward in its campaign to eliminate recruiting and subsidization of college athletes, particularly football players.

The N. C. A. A.'s adoption of a nine-point code for the guidance of its members, beset by these twin athletic evils, was regarded by college leaders as a move in the right direction despite the fact that the code is not binding upon anyone.

They pointed out that the code, for the first time, definitely defines certain practices which the N. C. A. A. regards as "unfair" encouragement to athletes.

The Athletic Code.

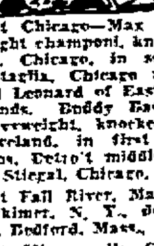

These "unjustifiable practices," as stated in the code, include: Flat subsidies to athletes; pay for work at higher wages than other students receive; employment before matriculation or payment in advance for work to be done; loaning money for remitting fees because a boy is an athlete; arranging interviews or corresponding with prospective athletes; promising employment, loans, scholarships other than those available to any student; luring athletes into transferring from other colleges; and the giving of financial aid by alumni, club or fraternity groups.

The code approved only two methods of encouraging athletes—work for the university at the same wage paid any other student and permission for athletic authorities to point out in speeches or in response to direct queries "what they believe to be the educational advantages of the institutions they represent."

Although the N. C. A. A. will make no attempt to police its membership along the lines of the code's provisions, Prof. Z. G. Clevenger of Indiana, chairman of a special committee on recruiting and subsidizing, hailed its adoption as "some advancement toward a more wholesome and more sportsmanlike condition."
